IAF's twin tests of Astra from Sukhoi 30 a success

The Indian Air Force on Friday successfully conducted twin flight tests of beyond visual range air-to-air missile Astra from the frontline fighter aircraft Sukhoi 30 MK-I off the Odisha coast. Equipped with indigenous radio frequency (RF) seeker, the indigenously developed missile was test fired twice against high-speed unmanned aerial targets. Defence sources said the missiles destroyed the targets with pin-point accuracy in both the cases.

Shirsat in a videograb; and the bag full of cash

Sena min caught on cam with cash, says it's clothes

A video Maharashtra minister Sanjay Shirsat sitting in a room with a partially opened bag containing what look like bundles of notes went viral on Friday. The Shiv Sena minister rubbished the claim that it was a money bag, and insisted that it contained only clothes. The video surfaced a day after reports emerged of Shirsat facing scrutiny from the Income Tax Department regarding a significant increase in his declared assets. P12

'One Nation One Election Bill not unconstitutional but needs rework'

Ex-CJIs red flag sweeping powers of EC under ONOE

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

Former Chief Justices of India D Y Chandrachud and J S Khehar

FORMER Chief Justices of India D Y Chandrachud and J S Khehar have flagged the sweeping powers that the One Nation One Election (ONOE) Bill seeks to confer on the Election Commission of India. According to sources, both ex-CJIs clarified that the bill for simultaneous elections does not violate the basic structure of the Constitution—as alleged by some Opposition parties—but suggested some tweaks in the language and provisions of the bill to check the unbridled powers of the Election Commission.

On Friday, Chandrachud concluded his presentation before the Joint Parliamentary Committee (JPC) headed by BJP MP P P Chaudhary, which was entrusted with the task to review the Bill.

Justice Khehar had already given his views on the legal and constitutional aspects of the proposed legislation. "The former CJIs told the JPC that though the Bill does not violate the basic structure of the Constitution, some of the proposed provisions may not get past judicial scrutiny. They also suggested the ways to address these issues. Both jurists suggested that there should be an 'oversight mechanism' on the conduct of elections," said sources.

Meanwhile, Opposition members including Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra and DMK's P Wilson raised queries about the constitutionality of dissolving assemblies midway to synchronise their polls with Lok Sabha elections.

Making his point before the JPC, Wilson argued that the aim is to curtail election expenditures but the proposed system would lead to numerous polls in the event of the fall of the government at the Centre. In such a scenario, the purpose of the Bill would be defeated, he pointed out.

Several other MPs also pointed out the issue of mid-term elections, sources said.

Justice Khehar suggested that Parliament or the Union Council of Ministers should have a say in taking the call on holding the election of an assembly, as envisaged under Section 82A(5) of the Bill.

After the meeting, Chaudhary said each aspect will be discussed and recommendations made.

Oppn manufacturing anxiety, says Shah

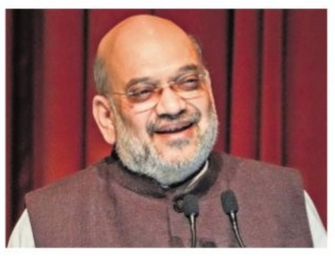
EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

EXPRESS INTERVIEW

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah says the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls, which is underway in poll-bound Bihar, would be implemented in other states as well. "I think roll revision will be done across the country," he remarked. Speaking to this newspaper, Shah said the Opposition is manufacturing anxiety over the process to mask its lack of electoral winnability. "If anyone has any concerns over the process, they should approach the Election Commission, not with presumptions, but with examples of the outcomes of the process," he said.

Predicting a win for the BJP-led alliance not only in Bihar later this year, but also Tamil Nadu and West Bengal, among other states scheduled to vote for new assemblies beginning next year, Shah said this reflected the massive and ongoing popular endorsement of the 11-year-old Narendra Modi government. "The world looks up to India again. Under Modi ji, we have restored faith in India's future. Today, 140 crore believe India can become a fully developed nation by 2047. Every sector is filled with confidence about making India self-reliant," Shah said. "Is there any area that has not seen improvement? Be it foodgrain production, advances in space, internal security, our global stature, reduction in corruption, our integrated approach to health?"



In reply to a question, Shah predicted, "The AIADMK–BJP alliance will win by a landslide in the coming election in Tamil Nadu. The people are fed up with corruption, nepotism and the family feuds of the DMK."

On the Opposition's apprehensions about the effect delimitation may have for the South Indian states, Shah asserted, "There is no need for anyone to feel anxious. I have said this categorically: There will be no injustice to the South." FULL INTERVIEW: P7

The commission, constituted to probe lapses in planning, coordination and crowd management during the RCB victory celebrations at the stadium, submitted the report after a month-long investigation.

After a brief discussion with Justice D'Cunha, Siddaramaiah said, "I cannot go through the entire report right now. It will be placed before the cabinet on July 17. Further action will be taken after the discussion." P5

DOGS FROM GP LIMITS STRAY INTO CITY AREAS, SPARK RABIES FEAR

BBMP vets say infection can spread from unvaccinated streeties

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

WITH the city's suburbs having a stray dog population of around 70,000 and the status of their anti-rabies vaccination unknown, Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) animal husbandry department officials express deep concern over the spread of rabies among vaccinated dogs in BBMP as well as migration of unvaccinated stray dogs from panchayats, especially in Bommanahalli, RR Nagar and Mahadevapura.

As per a senior veterinarian from the BBMP animal husbandry department, on average, at least 50 to 100 stray dogs in these Gram Panchayats (GPs) are unvaccinated and as dogs are scavengers by nature, there is a possibility of them spreading infection among dogs in BBMP limits.

"BBMP managed to complete above 80 per cent of Animal Birth Control (ABC) among stray dogs in East, West, South, Yelahanka and Dasarahalli zones but both the ABC and Anti-Rabies Vaccination programme in Mahadevapura, Bommanahalli and RR Nagar remain a big challenge. Due to population control of dogs in the past, strays from gram panchayats of Mahadevapura, Bommanahalli and RR Nagar have migrated into BBMP areas due to their scavenging nature and it is quite natural. BBMP has a budget only for ABC and vaccination under its limits, hence it's worried about rabies from scavenging strays," said a senior veterinary doctor in BBMP, adding that if infection is found in one stray dog, ring vaccination has to be done for at least 100 strays in the surrounding areas as a precaution.

As per records, there are 31 gram panchayats spread across these zones. According to animal husbandry department officials, there are approximately 70,000 stray dogs in Bengaluru Urban excluding BBMP limits, and each Town Municipal Corporation and City Municipal Corporation decides its Animal Birth Control and Anti Rabies Programme.

A GP official from Bidaraguppe, near Anekal taluk, adjacent to Bommanahalli zone, said in their limits, only 50 per cent of the Animal Birth Control programme was undertaken and there is no clarity on anti-rabies vaccination.

Echoing this, an official of Mandur Gram Panchayat in Mahadevapura Zone says the plan regarding Animal Birth Control and Anti-Rabies Vaccination among stray dogs in East taluk is yet to be discussed. "There is a state as well as national goal to eliminate rabies by 2030. Our gram panchayat is yet to get directions on both programmes," said the official.

95% of students not physically active: KAMS study

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Associated Managements of Primary and Secondary Schools in Karnataka (KAMS) has stated that over 95% of students across surveyed schools do not participate in physical activities, even during scheduled Physical Training (PT) periods.

The survey was conducted following the growing health risks among school children, citing a sharp rise in fatigue, low blood pressure, and early cardiac-related symptoms.

Based on years of school-level observation, KAMS attributes the worsening health of students to increasing sedentary lifestyles, poor dietary habits, and a concerning lack of physical activity—both at home and in schools.

In its statement, KAMS said that over 95% of students do not participate in physical activities. "Structured opportunities for exercise and cultural involvement are being ignored by students, with many showing complete disinterest in physical or extracurricular engagement. Alarmingly, this withdrawal is often enabled by parents, who routinely seek exemptions from PT classes, citing vague complaints such as body pain or fatigue," a release stated.

"Even during my school visits, I ask teachers to check how many students do any physical activity, be it jogging, exercise, or yoga. In most schools, you won't find even 1 to 2 percent of students doing it regularly," said Shashi Kumar, General Secretary, KAMS.

KAMS noted that this growing culture of physical avoidance is not an isolated school issue but one deeply rooted in home environments. Poor nutritional choices marked by high intake of processed and junk foods along with a lack of participation in household responsibilities, have contributed to low stamina levels among children. These patterns are compounded by unchecked digital consumption, with screen time far exceeding recommended limits, leading to further physical and mental health concerns.

The association expressed particular concern for female students, who are increasingly showing signs of anemia, low endurance, and other symptoms associated with malnutrition and inactivity. While many tend to attribute such conditions to post-COVID complications or environmental factors, KAMS emphasized that the majority of these cases are lifestyle-induced and preventable.

STAY FIT, GROW STRONG

KAMS has suggested a four-point action plan:

- Parents must take responsibility for ensuring daily physical activity at home
- Schools should accept exemptions from PT only on medical grounds
- Health education must begin at home
- Screen time and food habits should be actively monitored and corrected

6.6mm rain floods roads, hits traffic in South Bengaluru for brief while

A sudden spell of rain in some parts of the city on Friday caught residents offguard

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE city witnessed 6.6 mm of rainfall on Friday evening. Though the rain was brief, it was enough to throw traffic out of gear in core areas and also at places where civic agencies have taken up development works over the last few days.

The Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) maintained that only South Bengaluru and surrounding areas received heavy rainfall and there were no issues.

As per the Varunamithra application of the Karnataka Natural Disaster Monitoring Centre, Vidyapeeta received 33 mm rainfall, Nayandahalli 19 mm, Bommanahalli 18 mm, Doddabidarakallu 17.50 mm and Pattabhiramanagar 13.50 mm till 5.30 pm. Weather officials predicted light to moderate rainfall on Saturday as well.

Roads were flooded and the level in stormwater drains rose for a brief time.

Taking to social media on flooding of roads and low-lying areas in city the in the past, Deputy Chief Minister, who is also Bengaluru Development Minister, DK Shivakumar, posted on X, "When heavy rains occur in Bengaluru city, low-lying areas get flooded, and to put an end to this, a project has been undertaken to rejuvenate the stormwater drains passing through the city. Currently, there is a flow of 860 km of stormwater drains in the city. Out of this, the lining work for 491 km has been completed, and work on 125 km is in progress. A project has been formulated with World Bank assistance to rejuvenate the remaining 173.9 km of stormwater drains. This project to reconstruct stormwater drains and make Bengaluru city flood-free will be completed in the next 3 years."

GST notices based on UPI data: Tax dept

BENGALURU: Following reports of notices issued to small traders by the Commercial Tax Department, the state government clarified on Friday that the action was based on data collected from Unified Payments Interface (UPI) service providers to ensure compliance with Goods and Services Tax (GST) laws.

Under the GST Act, in force since July 1, 2017, suppliers with an annual turnover exceeding Rs 40 lakh (for goods) or Rs 20 lakh (for services) are required to register for GST. This turnover includes both taxable and exempt goods and services, although tax is applicable only on taxable items.

The department said while essential items like bread are exempt from GST, packaged snacks attract a 5% tax. It said UPI-based transaction data from 2021–22 to 2024–25 showed that many traders had received over Rs 40 lakh via UPI alone, excluding cash and other payment methods, indicating even higher total turnover. Based on this data, the department issued notices to traders. ENS

All the 148 new e-buses will have ramps for the differently-abled. Transport Minister Ramalinga Reddy checks out one after flagging off the buses on Friday

BENGALURU Metropolitan Transport Corporation's (BMTC) push towards eco-friendly public transport got a major boost with the induction of 148 new non-AC electric buses on Friday. The buses were flagged off by Transport and Muzrai Minister Ramalinga Reddy at the BMTC Central Office in Shanthinagar. The event also marked the launch of new routes under express services and package tours.

With this, BMTC's electric bus fleet now totals 1,436 vehicles. The BMTC stated that the operation of electric buses prevents the emission of nearly 2.07 lakh kg of carbon dioxide per day and saves around 77,000 litres of diesel daily.

The buses will be operated from Depot-4 in Jayanagar. Each bus features a 298 kWh battery, 35 passenger seats plus wheelchair space, kneeling mechanisms, ramps for differently-abled passengers, panic buttons for women's safety, and voice announcement systems.

Charging points have been installed at key hubs such the Kempegowda, KR Market, Shivajinagar, BTM Layout, Hebbala and Mallasandra bus stations and the Bannerghatta TTMC.

BMTC also announced the phased induction of 195 AC electric buses and an additional 4,500 electric buses.

AI could soon shake the foundation of science edu: Princeton prof

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

ARTIFICIAL Intelligence (AI) could soon disrupt the very foundation of science education, said mathematician and Princeton University professor Manjul Bhargava on Friday.

Delivering the convocation address at the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) on Friday, he pointed out that within the next year or two, advanced AI models will likely be able to correctly solve undergraduate-level science problems — a development that will compel premier institutions like IISc to reconsider what and how they teach.

While acknowledging that current AI systems still struggle with complex scientific reasoning and remain "bad" at solving math and science problems, Prof Bhargava said significant progress is already under way. "More capable models are being tested. Once they cross that threshold, the role of institutions will evolve drastically. What should we be teaching once machines can answer questions better than us?"

During the convocation, 1,593 students received their degrees, including 1,487 postgraduate students and 106 undergraduates. Among them, 84 students, including 16 women, were awarded medals for academic excellence.

Kris Gopalakrishnan, chairperson of the IISc Council and co-founder of Infosys, along with senior faculty members of the institute, were present.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

12th July: Mercury engages with Pluto today, in a roundabout way. And no, I'm not just trying to impress you with astrology-speak! I'm looking at a planetary alignment which indicates a coming together of fact and fantasy, intelligence and imagination. It's a great moment for all you geniuses out there! The rest of us could also be brighter than usual!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The contradictory shuffle of planets through your chart looks very much like a matter of gaining on the swings and losing on the roundabouts. Still, social influences are good, so do get out and about as much as you can: you may be more popular than you imagine.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Hopefully you will now be able to make a once-and-for-all break with the somewhat dubious habits of the past. I say that now because you are almost at the very end of a series of emotional planetary patterns that can be traced back over recent months.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You've got some pretty strong opinions, but you've got to think very carefully before you try and persuade other people that you're right. You'll be stimulated by long-distance travel, but even if you're forced to stay where you are, you'll still have your dreams.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Business and pleasure come together in unusual ways. It's time to crack open the piggy-bank and squander your ill-gotten gains. If you're socialising tonight, be prepared to pick up the tab. If you have declarations of love to make, go over the top.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The chickens should now be coming home to roost, in the nicest possible way, of course. In fact, some of your past actions will shortly return like so many boomerangs, hopefully in the form of pleasant rewards. You may face a little criticism, but nothing you can't handle.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Several planets are now settling into comfortable regions of your solar chart. In fact, the auspices, as you will shortly find out, are in many ways looking excellent for the next twelve months. Optimism and faith in the future will be your greatest qualities.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Push the boat out and enjoy the fact that the Moon aligns with your house of lovers as Venus and Mercury lift your spirits and send messages to your house of friends. However, when it comes to cash questions, your mood will change, becoming rather more serious.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
There are pleasant indications of a helpful family period. However, you may also be seized by a desire to get away entirely and pursue a personal ambition free from all restraints. With a bit of careful handling you'll get your way and upset nobody.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
A roughcount of your planets shows that they are split between those which favour fun and others which either urge more work or are undecided. That looks to me like a recipe for relaxation. Even serious choices and issues may be safely put to one side while everyone digests the latest information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Extravagant stars continue. The question is, then, are you going to buck the trend or follow it and surge into the red? The choice is yours: nothing is set in stone. Plus, travel plans may have changed, but it honestly doesn't look as if the end result will be any different.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
With the Moon aligned with your sign, you have no excuse if anything goes wrong. In point of fact, there are many ways to deal with lingering problems, some of which have not yet occurred to you. Use your power wisely and include the restoration of frayed relationships amongst your goals.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Allow yourself the pleasure of spending a little time alone. This is very much a period to concentrate on your own personal ventures, even if that means other people having to wait for your attentions! Patience is a virtue that partners would do well to develop.

Dept inquiry ordered against ASI for aiding LeT terrorist

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

A departmental inquiry has been ordered against Assistant Sub-Inspector (ASI) Chan Pasha, who was arrested by the National Investigation Agency (NIA) for allegedly aiding Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) terrorist T Naseer, currently lodged in Bengaluru Central Prison at Parappana Agrahara.

Addressing the media after the monthly parade at the City Armed Reserve Parade Grounds (South) in Adugodi, City Police Commissioner Seemant Kumar Singh confirmed that a departmental inquiry had been initiated.

Dharmasthala burial case complainant records his statement

Court refuses to allow advocates to accompany him; Family provided security

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mangaluru

THE complainant in the Dharmasthala mass burials case recorded his statement before the Court of the Principal Civil Judge & JMFC, Belthangady Taluk, Dakshina Kannada on Friday. He recorded his statement under Section 183 of BNSS (Section 164 of the CrPC).

Ojaswi Gowda and Sachin Deshpande, advocates representing the complainant, stated in a press note that they were clearly told by the complainant beforehand that one of them should be present in the Court while he was recording his statement.

"He is illiterate, has never been to a court before and had expressed serious difficulty with the process. We clearly informed about it to the court. But the court did not agree to the presence of advocates and commenced the recording of the complainant's statements in our absence," they said.

They said the complainant has been granted cover and protection under the Witness Protection Scheme, 2018. "The authorities sent a communication on this on Thursday evening. The complainant has conveyed his gratitude to the district judiciary and police authorities of Dakshina Kannada and state government for acting expeditiously on the request for witness protection," they said.

The complainant, who claimed to have worked for over a decade with the Dharmasthala temple administration as Class D staff, has filed a complaint with the Dakshina Kannada superintendent of police and Dharmasthala police station, alleging that he was threatened and forced to bury bodies of persons who were raped and murdered in Dharmasthala village limits and surrounding areas. He has sought an investigation into the alleged murders of men and women and has sought protection for his family and him. The complainant, whose identity has not been revealed, has said he has details of alleged murders, rapes and cover-ups in Dharmasthala village.

Man held for trying to murder actress wife

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A 49-year-old auto-rickshaw driver was arrested on charges of trying to murder his wife, a Kannada television serial actress. The police said Amaresh, the accused, used pepper spray on his wife's face before stabbing her with a knife suspecting her fidelity on July 4.

The victim, identified as Manjula alias Shruthi, is undergoing treatment at Victoria Hospital and is said to be out of danger. She is the mother of two daughters.

They were in courtship before getting married about 20 years ago and were staying at Muneshwara Block in Srinagar.

As she would come home late in the night and sometimes under the influence of alcohol, the accused would fight with her. The accused was even more frustrated as she would not come home for a few days and was not taking care of the family, mainly the daughters. Their fights had also caught the attention of the police. One day before the incident, the police had advised them to sort out the differences and to live without fighting. The victim would also go and stay at her brother's house after arguments with her husband.

The accused would request her to return for the sake of their daughters. Even the family elders had tried to resolve the issues between them.

"On July 4th after the children went to college, Amaresh fought with the victim and repeatedly stabbed her after using pepper spray on her face. The neighbours, after hearing her cry, rescued her and took her to a nearby hospital in an autorickshaw. As it was a medico legal case, the police who were informed rushed to the victim's house and arrested her husband," said an officer.

The victim has acted in a few Kannada serials and earlier worked in a vernacular news channel.

State's two-language policy draws support and opposition

GAYATHRI M KURUP @Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah's statement favouring a two-language formula for school education has ignited a vigorous debate over the issue.

While some say the existing three-language formula could increase the linguistic proficiency and cognitive advancements, others view it as an added academic burden or a potential threat to local languages.

"At the Council for the Indian School Certificate Examinations (CISCE), we do encourage a three-language formula, and the three-language policy is extremely successful. Today, in Bengaluru, talk to any child and you'll find they already speak multiple languages with ease. When children naturally have the ability to learn and comprehend in different languages, who are we to hold them back?" said Gayethri Devi, Principal, Little Flower Public School.

Shashi Kumar D, General Secretary of Associated Managements of Primary and Secondary Schools in Karnataka (KAMS), supports the existing policy, citing cognitive benefits. "From a cognitive point of view, the benefits of learning multiple languages are immense. It enhances logical reasoning, critical thinking, and even reduces the risk of dementia later in life. Language acquisition is most effective before the age of 8 to 10.

Research shows that with enough interest, concentration, and resources, the human brain can learn up to 40 languages, not that everyone will, but it shows our potential. Learning three to five languages is very manageable."

However, educationist VP Niranjanaradhya stands in strong opposition to the policy, arguing that it burdens young learners. "Language learning must be discussed not from the angle of educational business, but from the point of epistemology and knowledge acquisition. Language for career can be learned later, but children need focused, unburdened early education. It demands time and energy that could otherwise be used to deepen understanding in fewer languages," he said. "I personally feel Karnataka should not lag behind. Our experience with Hindi as a third language has harmed children's learning abilities in their mother tongue and English," he added.

Some educationists are not entirely against the three-language policy, but oppose the imposition of a specific language, especially Hindi on south Indian students.

"Exposure plays a significant role in language learning. Teaching children Hindi that isn't part of their environment can lead to disinterest and negatively impact their overall learning experience. A better approach is to offer flexibility and choose a language that is meaningful to the students, perhaps from a neighbouring state or their mother tongue. Language learning should help children feel connected, not left out," said Kirti K, co-founder of Vetaas Educational Foundation, an education-based nonprofit organisation.

Magisterial probe into stadium stampede still on

AFTER the stampede, an FIR was registered at Cubbon Park police station. The case is now being investigated by SIT of the Central Investigation Department (CID). In addition to the judicial commission, the Chief Minister had also ordered a magisterial probe and that report is yet to be submitted.

After the incident, the police arrested Nikhil Sosale, RCB's marketing head, and three executives of DNA Entertainment, all of whom are out on interim bail currently. The CM had also ordered the suspension of five police officers, including then Bengaluru police commissioner B Dayananda, for dereliction of duty. ENS

Landslide cuts off Suligere village, people stranded without power, fuel for 3 weeks

SUBHASH CHANDRA N S @
Suligeri (Uttara Kannada)

WITH the landslide near Kodasalli in Uttara Kannada remaining unattended for the past 10 days, 35 families in the village of Suligeri are cut off from the world, deprived of transport, communication, and basic amenities like electricity, petrol and kerosene. There is a fear that the villagers could soon run out of rations.

The landslide occurred on July 2, leaving the village of 35 families marooned. Suligeri sank into darkess three weeks ago when heavy rainfall brought down three electricity poles, putting a stop to all activities after 5pm. "There has been no power since the past 21 days, and we spend our evenings in darkness. There is no kerosene to light lamps. We have dinner in the evenings and sleep early, and wait for the first light of dawn. Students are deprived of studies, and whatever they study in school is all," said Nagaraj Naik, a resident.

The landslide has brought many problems for students. A girl here who was to attend counselling for hostel admission missed her interview. A college student from Ulavi wrote her semester examination after a determined effort to reach Kadra -- she got help from a bike rider who crossed the landslide, after which she hired a vehicle and reached the town and went to college in a bus.

A few students have rented a room in Kadra, and a few others are staying in houses of relatives as they cannot return home. Teachers who come to Suligere schools to teach have been forced to turn the schools into their home for the past 10 days.

A few youth who go to Kodasalli to work as contract workers at KPCL's power generation station are luckiest. They charge their rechargeable batteries required for lighting and mobile phones to connect to the outer world. The landslide has affected two roads -- the road connecting two villages as well as Kodasalli dam. KPCL staff are picked up in a vehicle from Kadra and dropped at the landside site, where a jeep is stationed to pick them up and drop them to the power generation station. However, this luxury is not for Suligeri villagers.

KPCL's Kodasalli reservoir, which contributes about 100MW of power, with an installed capacity of 150MW, is in the dark. Heavy rainfall has affected the transformer, and the power generating facility is now dependent on a generator, which is dependent on diesel. There is a possibility that the power unit itself might plunge into darkness.

CLEARING WORK WILL START MID-WEEK

The geologists' team is yet to give a report. We might get it by Monday and landslide clearing work will start next week, by Wednesday or Thursday. As for power disruption in Suligeri, I have instructed Hescom authorities to restore power supply. Regarding supplies for the villagers, we have provided them with 5kg each of Annabhagya rice. They are not totally cut off, there is an alternative route via Joida, but it is long route.

BJP MP and former CM Basavaraj Bommai has said that it is not Siddaramaiah but the Congress high command that can confirm whether he will continue in office for the entire tenure of five years. Until the high command clarifies, this drama on leadership change will continue, he said

'NO COMMENTS': DKS SAYS HE'LL WORK FOR PARTY

Shivakumar refuses to reply to Siddaramaiah's 'full-term' remark | Downplays Delhi visit, says politics was not discussed with top brass | Leadership change now a closed chapter, say ministers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A day after Siddaramaiah asserted that he will continue to remain as chief minister and complete his full term, Deputy CM DK Shivakumar refused to react to the former's statements. "I will not comment on the leadership change topic," Shivakumar said, maintaining that he will continue to strengthen the party as KPCC president and also discharge his duties as the DyCM.

"AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge has given us deekshe and we are happy to accept it. I am going to continue with my work. I will not answer anything other than this," Shivakumar said.

According to informed sources, Shivakumar tried to get an appointment to meet LoP in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi, but in vain. Shivakumar had cancelled his return ticket to Bengaluru from Delhi on Thursday.

Just a few days back, Shivakumar had said that he had no option other than supporting Siddaramaiah as the CM. "The Congress has entrusted me with the responsibility of strengthening the party and also given me the Deputy CM post. My focus is on the party and government's welfare only," the state Congress chief said.

When asked about Siddaramaiah commenting on the leadership issue even before the high command made a statement, Shivakumar said, "I will not fall prey to your questions. I am going to continue with my work."

When asked about Siddaramaiah's statement that Shivakumar has the support of only a few MLAs, the latter said, at present, he is just the KPCC president, and he will do whatever the party asks him to do.

"The CM has already answered. Do not ask me the same question again. Why are you (reporters) panicking about our internal matters when we are not?" Shivakumar said.

When asked about Siddaramaiah claiming that he will lead the Congress in the 2028 Assembly elections, Shivakumar said that it was his personal opinion. "As a party president, my focus is on the party. If the party is there, I will be there... if the party isn't there, I am nothing," Shivakumar reiterated.

Shivakumar said that there was no political discussion during his Delhi visit. "We discussed appointments of party workers as chairpersons and members to boards and corporations. Since all MLAs have submitted their opinions, we need to talk to ministers. As promised, we have to give suitable posts to those who worked to strengthen the party at the taluk and district-level organisation. This process has been delayed. This is in its final stages. As KPCC president, I will send their names to the high command to get its nod," he said.

CM, DYCM MEETING WITH SURJEWALA ON BOARDS, CORPNS 'INCOMPLETE'

BENGALURU: The meeting of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy CM DK Shivakumar with AICC General Secretary, Karnataka in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala to discuss the appointment of chairpersons to boards and corporations was "incomplete" and it will likely be decided on July 16. Siddaramaiah said there was a meeting with Surjewala along with Shivakumar to finalise the names to boards and corporations. "It remained inconclusive. The appointments will be finalised during Surjewala's visit to Bengaluru next week," he said. The chief minister was talking to media persons in New Delhi before emplaning to Bengaluru. Sources said the high command is discussing with MLAs various issues of the party including appointments to boards and corporations. ENS

CHANGE IN CM's POST CLOSED CHAPTER NOW, SAYS LAXMI HEBBALKAR

MYSURU: Women and Child Development Minister Laxmi Hebbalkar on Friday said the issue of change in chief minister's post is a closed chapter as Siddaramaiah has categorically stated he will complete his term of five years as chief minister. There won't be a revolution in September, as it is only peace now, she said. She was referring to a comment by Cooperation Minister and Siddaramaiah loyalist KN Rajanna that there would be a revolution in state politics. She said Siddaramaiah has answered all the questions and there is no point in beating around the bush. She said the government is depositing Rs 2,000 into the accounts of beneficiaries of the Gruha Lakshmi scheme regularly and her reply was different from that of Guarantee Implementation Scheme Chairman HM Revanna's, who had said the government cannot deposit the money every month. "We have paid till May and there are no hurdles to make the payment," she said. ENS

Dr G toes party line, says unaware of power-sharing agreement

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

WITH Siddaramaiah saying that he will continue to remain as CM, Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said that there was no discussion on leadership change with the high command. The minister reiterated that the state unit will go by the decision of the top brass. Dr Parameshwara said that the high command will take a final call irrespective of the opinion of the legislators.

He admitted that statements of a few MLAs on the change of guard issue have created some confusion. "The party high command has directed us not to speak about the leadership issue in public. A few MLAs have spoken about this in their meeting with AICC General Secretary Randeep Surjewala. I don't know why the question of who is supporting who has cropped up now," he said. He said that CM Siddaramaiah and DyCM DK Shivakumar have worked hard to bring the Congress to power in the state. He said everyone has ambitions in politics.

On the power-sharing agreement, he said that he was not aware of it and maintained that it would not have been an issue if it had been brought to their notice before entering into any sort of understanding.

He said that the speculation over leadership change has ended with Siddaramaiah categorically saying in New Delhi that he will remain the CM.

Karnataka to approach PM for approval for defence corridors

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

INDUSTRIES Minister MB Patil on Friday said they will soon meet Prime Minister Narendra Modi to seek approval for defence corridors in the state.

Patil said they had met Defence Minister Rajnath Singh in the national capital, and he had responded positively to the state's request for defence corridors in North and South Karnataka. The Union Cabinet has to approve defence corridors for the state, he added.

Due to changes in the geopolitical situation -- Russia-Ukraine war, Israel-Iran war and other developments -- there is expected to be high demand for defence, aerospace, deep-tech, artificial intelligence and other related sectors for at least the next 20 years, Patil said.

Farmers are opposing the acquisition of land for a defence and aerospace park in Devanahalli taluk near Bengaluru, and the Chief Minister will be holding a meeting with the farmers on July 15. Adequate compensation should be given to farmers if land is acquired for the project, he said.

Patil said they are due to meet Civil Aviation Minister Ram Mohan Naidu next week to discuss the second international airport in Bengaluru, and a decision will be taken after taking a look at Navi Mumbai and other new airports.

On the leadership issue in the party, Patil said that the Chief Minister and state Congress president's posts are not vacant, and there is no need to create unnecessary confusion as the high command's decision is final.

'Yettinahole may get Centre's nod'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Friday said that the State has urged the Union Government to give its appraisal report on the Mekedatu Balancing reservoir project.

Speaking to media persons after returning from his visit to New Delhi, the DyCM said whatever the court's decision may be, the Union Government must give its appraisal report on the project, and the Union Jal Shakti minister has agreed to do so.

Shivakumar said that the discussion with the Union Jal Shakti minister on the state's irrigation projects was fruitful. "Union Jal Shakthi Minister has assured us that our request for funds for the Yettinahole drinking water project would be considered positively. It was a fruitful meeting," he said.

He said they have discussed many aspects with Union Jal Shakthi minister CR Patil, including releasing the gazette notification for increasing the height of the Alamatti dam and approvals for the Mekedatu project. They also had a discussion with Union Minister for Environment Bhupendra Yadav on environmental clearance for the Kalasa-Bhanduri project. He has suggested an amicable solution between the two states. "We have moved court as Goa can't object to the project," he said.

Shivakumar said they also submitted proposals for new projects, and he will travel to New Delhi during the Monsoon Session and discuss with MPs how they can exert pressure on the government on these aspects.

Responding to a question on opposition to the Lakkenahalli dam in the Yettinahole project, he said, "there will be opposition to all infrastructure projects, but drinking water needs to be supplied."

They are also thinking of using other options for storing water in Koratagere taluk and will discuss it with Home Minister G Parameshwara and place it before the Cabinet meeting.

WILL NOT DEMAND 2A RESERVATION AS LONG AS SIDDARAMAIAH REMAINS CM, SAYS SEER

BELAGAVI: Kudalasangama Basava Jayamruthyunjaya Swamiji has declared that the Panchamasali community will not demand 2A reservation as long as Siddaramaiah remains the state's chief minister. Speaking to media in Belagavi on Friday, the seer said, "During the Assembly session, the government tried to suppress the Panchamasali movement by resorting to lathicharge. For this reason, we have decided not to seek reservation during Siddaramaiah's tenure." He expressed happiness over the High Court's rejection of the Karnataka government's petition in connection with the lathicharge incident and said "The government, acting illegally and in collusion with the police, unleashed a deadly assault on peaceful protestors. We had demanded that the officers responsible for the unl wful assault be suspended. Following this, we staged a nine-day agitation to press our demands, but the State Government remained indifferent," he said. "We then moved the High Court, questioning the wrongful actions of the government. On April 4, HC accepted our petition and delivered a historic verdict. It directed that an investigation be conducted by a bench of three judges within three months. However, even after the three-month deadline, the government has made no effort to initiate an investigation. It appears the government is now filled with regret," he added. ENS

K'TAKA HC STAYS DEFAMATION CASE AGAINST CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

'CORRUPTION RATE CARD' ADS

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday stayed the defamation case filed by the BJP's Karnataka unit against Chief Minister Siddaramaiah for allegedly publishing advertisements during the 2023 assembly election campaign under the title "corruption rate card".

Justice SR Krishna Kumar stayed the proceedings of the case against Siddaramaiah after hearing the petition filed by him questioning the legality of the case filed against him by the BJP.

The BJP had filed the complaint against the Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC), Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar and Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, alleging defamation through newspaper advertisements on May 5, 2023.

The advertisements were published during the 2023 assembly elections campaign, accusing the BJP of corruption, demanding up to 40% commission from contractors, etc.

The BJP had alleged in its complaint that false and reckless allegations were made in the advertisements issued by the accused persons in all the mainstream newspapers during campaigning, under the title "Corruption rate card" and making accusations of "40 per cent Commission Sarkara".

The high court had stayed the proceedings against Rahul Gandhi in January 2025 and against DK Shivakumar in the first week of this month, after hearing their petition against the case filed against them.

MY TAKE

Deal with proven culprits for sudden cardiac deaths than the unproven

NIRAD MUDUR
Deputy Resident Editor, Karnataka
niradgmudur@newindianexpress.com

TWENTY-four "sudden" deaths over 40 days in May-June this year in Hassan district, suspected to be due to cardiac issues, have sent shock waves across the state. Of these deaths, 14 were aged under-45 while 10 were over that age. Even before the facts behind the deaths were established, a section of experts, politicians and the general public jumped the gun to speculate that the sudden increase in cardiac deaths was due to Covid-19 vaccine-induced clotting, affecting the cardiovascular system.

The Karnataka government ordered an investigation into the deaths by the Director, Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences (SJICS), Bengaluru. The probe report, which came out on July 10, concluded that the deaths did not indicate any increase in sudden cardiac deaths in the district. It was almost the same as in the previous months in Hassan district. Analysis of cardiac cases data at SJICS, Bengaluru, and its peripheral centres in Mysuru and Kalaburagi, in the last six months also did not show any increasing trends in cardiac deaths. The report also stated that definitive conclusions about cause of deaths in each case were limited due to lack of autopsy data, clinical data and limited history from family members. However, it did note that the occurrences of sudden deaths in younger adults underscored the growing burden of premature cardiovascular disease. The report called for early cardiovascular screening programs and health education, and establishing mandatory investigation protocols (including post-mortems) for all sudden deaths in apparently healthy young adults.

The deaths in Hassan districts have rattled many. But it must be remembered that cardiovascular disease (CVD) has been a major health concern – in fact at epidemic proportions – not only in Karnataka, but across India, from much before the Covid-19 pandemic and the vaccines came on the scene. Moreover, international studies have failed to conclusively prove a link between the Covid-19 vaccines and cardiac-related incidents or deaths.

According to a Global Burden of Disease study, the CVD death rate in India is 272 per 1,00,000 population, higher than the global average of 235/1 lakh population.

The Indian Journal of Forensic and Community Medicine says CVD is a major health concern in Karnataka, and the leading cause of death in the 40+ age group. Approximately 18% of adults in urban Karnataka and nearly 16% in rural areas are projected to experience serious cardiovascular events like heart attacks or strokes within the next decade. Risk factors for CVD are largely modifiable, making it crucial to document baseline and future trends.

What has shocked people over the Hassan deaths is the apparent suddenness of it, that too among relatively young individuals, especially considering an increasing number of sudden deaths among below-40 adults across the country. The probe report cites this as "a matter of concern and cannot be overlooked". But many of these individuals who died in Hassan district had identifiable risk factors such as smoking, alcohol use, obesity, hypertension, or a family history of heart disease. Four of the 24 deaths were non-cardiac deaths – one suffering from chronic kidney disease, one from road accident-related problems, one from an acute gastroenteritis infection, and one from suspected electrocution. Of the 20 remaining, ten were confirmed cardiac deaths – three were post-bypass surgery, post-angioplasty and dilated cardiomyopathy (heart failure), respectively, while the remaining seven confirmed cardiac deaths included four being detected based on autopsy evidence and three on ECG evidence of heart attack.

The suspected Covid-19 link to CVD issues is a recent concern. But CVDs for years have been known to be driven primarily by a combination of traditional risk factors, lifestyle choices, and emerging sedentary lifestyle trends, with hypertension, diabetes, high cholesterol, obesity, smoking and high alcohol consumption being the key factors. These are compounded by poor diet, stress, lack of physical activity, air pollution, and genetic predisposition to cardiac issues, which contribute to rising prevalence of CVDs. While people suspect fatal side-effects of the Covid-19 vaccine – which is not yet scientifically proved and convincingly conveyed – why have they been largely ignoring the already convincingly proven potentially fatal side-effects of the long-known factors that lead to CVDs?

That the Covid-19 vaccines were ushered by a government ruled by a party at the Centre following a different ideology than the one ruling in Karnataka now makes it easily prone to politically loaded statements being delivered to either attack or defend the vaccines by either side. But the very mechanism and nature of politics in India is like that – almost everything by a ruling party is criticized by the opposition. So Covid vaccines and their assumed ill-effects are no exceptions to the rule. However, when it comes to a sensitive issue like health, people would do better to remember Mark Adam Hyman, an American physician and author, who stated: "Lifestyle change and changes in diet work faster, better and more cheaply than any medication, and are as effective, or more effective, than gastric bypass, without any side effects or long-term complications."

Let's not try passing the buck on an unproven culprit than the already proven ones.

NO SECTOR IS LEFT WITHOUT DEVELOPMENT BY NARENDRA MODI IN 11 YEARS ● WE WILL WIN BY A LANDSLIDE IN COMING TAMIL NADU ASSEMBLY ELECTIONS

'ENTIRE WORLD ACKNOWLEDGES INDIA'S KEY ROLE AS A GLOBAL SOLUTION-MAKER'

FROM global to national and regional, Union Home Minister Amit Shah says the Modi government has changed things for the better across the gamut. In a freewheeling interview with TNIE Editor Santwana Bhattacharya, Chief of National Bureau Jayanth Jacob and Senior Assistant Editor Rajesh Kumar Thakur, Shah addresses a range of issues—several directly relevant to the South. Crucially, he seeks to dispel all fears regarding funds devolution and delimitation, while caustic on all political topics. Excerpts:

EXPRESS INTERVIEW
Total allotment to the five states in the South under tax devolution during the Modi govt has gone up to ₹10,96,754 crore from ₹3,55,466 crore, a 209% increase.

The Modi government has completed 11 years. What would you say are its three most impactful reforms?
In the decade before 2014, doubts about India's future were common among different groups—journalists, the science community, students, farmers, business groups. The sense of uncertainty was immense. Not only within India: the entire global perception was that India had no bright future.

People often asked me what Narendra Modi faced as his biggest challenges as PM. Was it internal security or corruption or a broken administrative system? I believe it was the task of restoring faith in India's future.

When we look back, I believe Modiji, as a leader and PM, along with the people of the country, worked hard to ensure the world looks up to India again. Today, 140 crore people believe India can become a fully developed nation by 2047. The world considers India the fastest-growing economy and acknowledges the role New Delhi plays as a global solution-maker. I think this is the most defining change in the last 11 years.

Sectorally, too, we see great change. Critics talk only about isolated aspects. But do a comprehensive analysis—is there any area that has not seen improvement? Be it foodgrain production, advances in space, industrial growth, internal security, diplomacy, cutting corruption... If we see it as a whole, we can see the difference.

On national challenges, China makes massive investments in education and health. Education is nearly free. Millions of students enter research every year. They're competing with the US on AI. Is our education spend anywhere close?
The world is seeing the effects of development that has been going on in China for 50 years. We started only in 2014. Actually, Rahul Gandhi should be asked this question. What has the Congress done all these years? If it had started working with a holistic approach back then, all this work would not have piled up.

Income disparities are still painfully high in India. We're not even a fully middle-income country...
Let me give you some numbers to dispel the idea that we are caught in some low-income trap. The health budget was around ₹37,000 crore in 2014. Now it's around Rs 1 lakh crore. The farm budget was about ₹22,000 crore, it's ₹1.37 lakh crore today. Infrastructure? Up from ₹2 lakh crore to ₹11.21 lakh crore. Over 10 years, we have provided 60 crore poor people with housing, cooking gas, electricity, drinking water, 5 kg of free rations, free medical care up to ₹5 lakh. That's around 14 crore families lifted out of basic hardships, something no government could do in 75 years.

We didn't look at things in isolation. Take our integrated approach to a sector like health. When we said we would build toilets under Swachh Bharat, people thought it was just a slogan. But it was directly linked to health. Then Nal Se Jal. No one realises that addresses the problem of fluoride-contaminated water for every household.

We brought a scheme for affordable medicines. Whether cancer, blood pressure or diabetes, medicines are now available at 20 per cent of their original cost. We made vaccinations for kids free. We've redesigned the malnutrition programme. From anganwadi to Class 9, the child is tracked and supported. We stopped 13 crore firewood-based cooking systems to improve women's health.

For years, only slogans were raised based on ideology. But what did they do? Just got articles published in English?

Why are we still fighting over language and medium of education?
There's no fight as far as we are concerned. We have a firm policy: India should be run in Indian languages. The fight is in the minds of those who still believe the country should run on foreign languages. You just gave the example of China. Learn from them. Learn from Russia. Japan too. Germany as well. And France.

We respect all Indian languages. We believe the South should be run in its own languages. Two states should run in Telugu. Tamil Nadu should function in Tamil. Kerala should function in Malayalam. Hindi's standing is not the same there.

What about Hindi?
Our leaning is towards all Indian languages. We conducted CAPF constable GD exam in 13 languages. JEE, NEET, UGC are conducted in 12 languages. NEP provides for imparting primary, technical and medical education in regional languages. Stalin should tell people in TN what he has done.

The two Thackeray cousins have come together on language.
That's not the only reason. Both have come under two digits, that's the real issue.

You are tying up with the AIADMK in Tamil Nadu. How's the language issue going there?
When I say Indian languages, Tamil is included. I have this to say to Stalin. Teach medicine in Tamil. Why don't you? Teach engineering in Tamil. Why don't you do it? If Tamil Nadu's stand is that it opposes teaching in Tamil, then I have a problem.

What do you feel about the AIADMK-BJP's prospects?
We will win by a landslide.

Your political acumen and strategy...does it depend on that or on what happens on the ground?
I am talking about the mood of the people. The people of Tamil Nadu are fed up with corruption, deteriorating law and order, nepotism and family feuds.

If you win, will you join the government?
Yes.

Is there a possibility that Vijay will join you, or PMK and smaller parties? Otherwise, it will be a multi-cornered contest.
We can't say that now. We will make efforts to bring parties on to a single platform.

What's the biggest issue in Tamil Nadu?
Rampant corruption under the DMK. It's a very long list—amounting to thousands of crores. The liquor scam worth Rs 39,775 crore involved irregularities in FL2 licences, bar tenders, overcharging, illegal sales, and bottle procurement fraud. The sand mining scam of ₹5,800 crore: 105 hectares exploited instead of the permitted 4.9 hectares, a 30-fold over-extraction. In the energy scam, Rs 4,400 crore was misused through contracts awarded by DMK. The ELCOT scam involved Rs 3,000 crore where public company shares were transferred to a private firm. The transport department scam of ₹2,000 crore revolved around fake tape fitment certificates. The ₹600 crore TNMSC scam involved contracts given through fake letterheads, companies, addresses. At least ₹450 crore was misused by procuring women's nutrition kits at 4–5 times the actual price, favouring a private company. The free dhoti scam of ₹60 crore involved irregularities during Pongal. The cash-for-jobs scam saw lakhs taken from individuals. In the MGNREGA scam, ₹41,503 was misappropriated per beneficiary.

Then there's the groupism in that party. The power centre is outside the state secretariat. The DMK cadre is also confused about whether to follow Sabareesan or the son or Kanimozhi or someone else. That's why DMK is trying to create issues out of nothing.

But how do you address the concerns the South is raising, particularly TN—say, about fund allocation following tax devolution changes under GST and 15th Finance Commission?
These are white lies the INDIA bloc has manufactured in order to cover up its mishandling of funds. The Modi government follows a holistic model of development, not a lopsided one. Funds to the South have increased substantially, contrary to the charges. The total allotment to the five states under tax devolution during the Modi government has gone up to ₹10,96,754 crore from ₹3,55,466 crore, a 209% increase. Grants-in-aid now stand at ₹9,38,518 crore—it was ₹2,18,053 during the UPA. That's a 330% rise. Tamil Nadu saw a 207% growth in tax devolution—from ₹94,977 crore to ₹2.92 lakh crore. And grants-in-aid increased by 342%! From ₹57,924 crore to ₹2.55 lakh crore.

And delimitation? The fears are real.
I have said categorically that we are going to address any concerns the southern states may have. There will be no injustice. The Delimitation Commission Act is yet to come. Then why are they talking about it? It is because elections are coming in Tamil Nadu. It's political. Before becoming an Act, discussions will happen in Parliament.

Can the BJP sustain its momentum from Haryana and Maharashtra through upcoming elections in Bihar, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, West Bengal?
We have good prospects everywhere. We'll repeat Assam as well. I haven't visited Bengal recently, but there's a lot of anti-incumbency against Mamataji. We are the only party well placed to inherit its benefits. We went up from just three seats to 77. Anyone who understands mathematics can see the trend. The Left, after ruling for 34 years, has been reduced to zero. The Congress, which governed for 30 years, also has a zero.

What about Bihar?
We feel good about Bihar. There's no major problem. The NDA will win for sure.

The Special Intensive Revision is being carried out too close to the election. There are a large number of vulnerable voters who don't have documents. Even EBC voters. Some of your own leaders are concerned, so are your allies.
I believe that if anyone has any concerns about the process, he/she should approach the Election Commission. Not with presumptions, but with examples of the outcomes of the process. Roll revision is not happening for the first time. It happened in 1991 too. Also, it's not being done only in Bihar. I think it will be done across India. Anyway, the matter is before the Supreme Court.

The Opposition is calling it a shadow CAA-NRC.
They oppose everything the EC does. They need to justify their poll defeats, so they present fake narratives, like saying "we lost because of EVMs". They seem to have no problem with the same EVMs in TN. They take oath after the same EVM gives them victory. They take oath in Telangana. However, in Maharashtra, they say EVM is faulty.

Mamata Banerjee alleges Assam CM Himanta Biswa Sarma is targeting Bengalis, especially Bengali Rajbanshis, with roll revision.
Do you not know Mamata Banerjee? Once, during a routine military exercise, she claimed the Centre had sent troops to her secretariat. How can you take what she says seriously?

You have a new state president in Kerala. What do you foresee there?
It will definitely make a difference. He will bring fresh energy. I will be going to Kerala soon.

When will the BJP national president's election be held? It's been delayed quite a bit.
It'll happen very soon. Nothing has been decided yet, no names have been considered, but it will be finalised very soon.

Are there differences between RSS and BJP?
No. These are imaginary stories of journalists.

They say your government started caste census under pressure.
Does that deserve a serious response? If the government does what the people demand, can you deny it credit?

Will it be a socio-economic survey or strictly a caste survey?
It will be a census that includes questions about caste.

WE RESPECT ALL INDIAN LANGUAGES. WE BELIEVE THE SOUTH SHOULD BE RUN IN ITS OWN LANGUAGES. TWO STATES SHOULD RUN IN TELUGU. TAMIL NADU SHOULD FUNCTION IN TAMIL. KERALA SHOULD FUNCTION IN MALAYALAM. HINDI'S STANDING IS NOT THE SAME THERE.

So, a socio-economic caste census?
No, a caste census. Socio-economic questions are a separate part of the general census.

The Opposition talks about the Telangana model.
What they are doing in Telangana is a survey. We are doing a census. There is a difference. In Karnataka, they tried, but had to scrap it.

The Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) has been implemented. How do you see its effect?
The three new criminal laws are the biggest legal reforms in independent India. You can see qualitative and quantitative changes in the justice delivery process. Once these laws are fully in force, every victim will get justice within three years up to the Supreme Court.

You have said Naxalism would be eliminated by 2026. What strategies did you adopt?
I believe the Naxal movement will be nearly eliminated before 2026. We abandoned the defensive strategy of previous governments. We filled the security vacuum in core Naxal areas while pushing forward development. We disrupted their supply chains, cut off access to funds, food, medicines, weapons, while presenting a well-structured surrender policy alongside. As a result, violent incidents of Naxalism have come down by 52%—from 16,463 in 2004-14, to 7,856. Deaths have come down for security forces by 71%, and for civilians by 68%.

What about Manipur?
There is no violence in Manipur at the moment, but the trust between the two communities has been deeply broken. Many NGOs, the government, and RSS are playing the role of a bridge between them.

On another front, cybercrime is rising dangerously.
Modi ji's vision is to build a cybersecure Bharat. Our agencies have developed an application to identify mule accounts instantly. They have been equipped with and trained in every new technology to stay ahead of cybercriminals. We launched helpline no. 1930. It handles over 60,000 calls a day. So far, over ₹4,725 crore has been returned to nearly 14.5 lakh victims. Our Cyber Crime Portal has registered over 65 lakh unique complaints and helped file 1.5 lakh FIRs.

India has seen huge drug seizures of late. Are there any targeted plans to fully eliminate drug trafficking in states like Punjab?
We have adopted a whole-of-government approach to eliminate the scourge not only from Punjab, but from the entire nation. In 2019, the MHA introduced a four-tier mechanism. Between 2004 and 2014, only 25 lakh kg of drugs worth ₹40,000 crore were seized. Between 2014 and 2025, 1 crore kg valued at ₹1,50,000 crore was confiscated. As many as 41 illegal synthetic drug labs have been dismantled. Crimes of all sorts have now become borderless. As much as 60-70% of drugs are carried through maritime routes. We have created a task force to counter trafficking via sea routes.

Is Operation Sindoor on pause or is it a ceasefire?
The Prime Minister has said Operation Sindoor is ongoing.

Has it lowered the threshold for military action?
No. They attacked innocent tourists. We punished the perpetrators by attacking terrorists. Pakistan considered that as an attack on itself. Their army officials attended the funerals. We had not fired even a single bullet at the Pakistan army or civilians. But they retaliated, and we attacked their air defence system. Then they said let's stop. We agreed.

What if there's another terror attack?
Decisions will be taken as per the gravity of the situation. During our time, three major incidents occurred—in Uri, Pulwama, and Pahalgam. We responded befittingly.

Did the international response meet your expectations? Or was it muted?
We cannot work assuming what the international community would think. When our people or our borders are attacked, we have the right to self-defence. Every country does. Pakistan got exposed on the world stage.

How much concern is there about the Trump tariffs and its impact?
We have made it very clear that no discussion will take place at the cost of India's interests. If anything disturbs India's interests, it won't be entertained.

You just laid the foundation stone for a Cooperative University. What's the idea behind it?
The cooperative sector is not symmetrical. In some states, it functions well. In others, it has almost collapsed. When Modi ji established the Ministry of Cooperation, we studied the reasons behind the imbalance. We found several factors: outdated laws, corruption, no reform, no elections on time. So we created a legal framework, which most states have now adopted. Then we built a national database, identified the vacuums, and are working to fill those.

However, we also noticed another critical gap—a lack of knowledge about cooperatives among professionals. An accountant working in a cooperative society or bank may know accounting, not the ethos or working of cooperatives. Similarly, a dairy engineer knows engineering but lacks this knowledge. The university will formalise that knowledge base.

PEOPLE OFTEN ASKED ME WHAT MODI JI FACED AS HIS BIGGEST CHALLENGES AS PM. WAS IT INTERNAL SECURITY OR CORRUPTION? I BELIEVE IT WAS THE TASK OF RESTORING FAITH IN INDIA'S FUTURE.

When the going gets weird, the weird turn pro — Hunter S Thompson

INDIAN EXPRESS IS NOT AN INDUSTRY. IT IS A MISSION.
— Ramnath Goenka

IT SECTOR'S GROWTH SUBDUED AS KEY MARKETS STAY CAUTIOUS ON SPENDS

THE first-quarter earnings season has just begun and the Indian IT sector is flashing amber. TCS, the industry bellwether, turned in a decent set of numbers for Q1, but flagged concerns about geopolitical uncertainties dragging down demand and upsetting markets. Importantly, TCS's international revenue shrank 0.5 percent in Q1. Even domestic revenues remained lacklustre, largely because of the tapering of a large BSNL order. Overall, the company noted its order pipeline has either been deferred or paused, as clients have become cautious with spending. Analysts, too, have warned about waning order flows this fiscal from key markets of the US and the UK. However, the company's management believes revenue growth will recover pace in the coming quarters.

Amid the uncertain global macroeconomic headwinds, the sector expects to maintain 6-8 percent revenue growth in 2025-26. That would make it the third consecutive fiscal with single-digit growth for the $250-billion Indian sector, which once used to deliver enviable growth rates and hire record numbers of employees every year. Now, companies are going slow on expanding operations. Considering the sector's high attrition rates, the overall operating profitability should remain healthy this fiscal. That said, one of the key reasons for single-digit growth is the subdued growth in business from the banking, financial services, and insurance sector and the retail sector, which together account for about 45 percent of the Indian IT sector's revenues. Following a modest recovery in 2024-25, growth in these two market segments is likely to remain dismal at 3-5 percent this year amid slowing economic growth and cautionary discretionary spends, according to Crisil Research. It does not help that the manufacturing and healthcare segments, which together contribute about 20 percent, are also expected to register low single-digit growth.

If there is a trend, the big question is whether the single-digit growth for three years is a temporary blip driven by cyclical factors, or a sign of deeper structural issues. The good news is that despite the ongoing global turmoil and subdued discretionary spending due to tariff-related concerns in the US, analysts claim the deterioration in demand has been lower than initially anticipated. While a strengthening dollar augurs well for the sector, a sharper-than-expected growth slowdown in key markets like the US will pose significant downside risks to growth.

TRAIN CITIZENS TO REACT TO DISASTER ALARM SYSTEM

IF you have recently felt anxious that the sky is falling and the ground is shaking, you would not be dismissed as delusional. The national capital territory was jolted by a 4.4-magnitude earthquake in the early hours of Thursday. Up north in Himachal Pradesh, calamities triggered by rain—landslides, flash floods and cloudbursts—have left a trail of devastation in a few quick weeks. The hill state's disaster management authority has admitted the loss of at least 91 lives in such incidents between June 20 and July 10. The scenes emerging from Mandi district show the scale of damages to property and nature. Last weekend, the Guadalupe river at Comfort town in faraway Texas rose from hip-height to three stories tall in about two hours, sending water weighing as much as the Empire State building downstream every minute and killing at least 120 people. The world over, July has become the cruellest month as far as natural disasters go.

We know such extreme weather events are the new normal; but the inability of science to predict them accurately adds to the anxiety. Even with this backdrop, the Donald Trump administration is slashing the budget of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration—on which not just the American, but other national weather services also depend for research and alerts—by a quarter from this October. India, meanwhile, has increased the capital outlay for its ministry of earth sciences several folds over three years to ₹879 crore in 2025-26. Yet, despite all the investments over time—including deploying some of the most powerful supercomputers to study weather patterns—we are not yet much wiser in predicting sudden extreme events.

The Texas tragedy is instructive in what not to do—investigations reveal the state repeatedly rejected pleas to fund a flood alarm system. India must be lauded for setting up the Cell Broadcast Alert System, which the department of telecom and the National Disaster Management Authority tested nationwide for efficiency last month. However, an alert system is only as efficient as the alacrity and clarity with which citizens react. Regular drills on reacting to different kinds of disasters should be mandatory at schools and offices. The only thing worse than deadly disasters would be a failure to learn from them and prepare better for the next time.

INCLUSIVE TOY STORY

TOYMAKER Mattel's decision to introduce a Barbie with Type 1 diabetes is welcome. This line of the 11.5-inch doll comes with an attached insulin pump and is dressed in a blue, a colour associated with diabetes awareness campaigns. The American company has also introduced Barbies with hearing aids and Kens with prosthetic legs. Early awareness of health conditions can go a long way in making children more compassionate. In India, cartoons can be a more effective medium to inculcate such values, as Japan's Studio Ghibli has done for decades. For a start, films such as Anjali, Barfi and Taare Zameen Par have portrayed autism with sensitivity. It's time to normalise such portrayals in cartoon shows, too.

Trump wants to extract tributes from the rest of the world. But his policies could end up diminishing America's prominence, making the respect he seeks harder to come by

A SIMPLE WAY TO LOOK AT TRUMP'S COMPLEX AGENDA

SATYAJIT DAS
Former banker and author of The Age of Stagnation

SOURAV ROY

OCCAM'S razor, a problem-solving principle, suggests that given the choice between multiple explanations, the simpler, obvious one is to be preferred. Applying this approach, US President Donald Trump's agenda does not require complex economic or political theorising. They involve three simple objectives.

The first is power. The president wants to increase his own authority, forcing others to supplicate themselves. The reciprocal tariffs require countries to make "phenomenal offers" to buy favourable treatment. NATO chief Mark Rutte's craven flattery, including allegedly referring to Trump as "daddy", is the behaviour expected.

The second objective flows from the president's association of intelligence with wealth—the attitude summed up by the line, 'If you're so smart, how come you're not rich.' Many of his policies are designed to enrich the president and his funders. Examples include the first family's own investments and trading, BlackRock's pending acquisition of two Panamanian ports and the administration-aligned firms' interest in TikTok's US business. The parallel is 1990s' Russia, where a small group of oligarchs became wealthy by looting state assets as the Soviet empire disintegrated.

The third involves Thomas Carlyle's 'great man of history' theory. Trump sees himself as an extraordinary leader, possessing superior intellect and heroic courage, whose manifest destiny is to change and rule over America and the world. This is allied to nostalgia and a worldview firmly rooted in the 1980s.

A reordering of the international trading and monetary system is central to this strategy. Prior to joining the administration as chair of the Council of Economic Advisers, Stephen Miran published a proposal to lower the dollar's value and reduce current account and fiscal deficits. Popularly known as the 'Mar-a-Lago Accord'—a nod to the Plaza and Louvre accords of the 1980s—it includes a series of steps, including tariffs and currency adjustments to force economic concessions favourable to the US from other nations. One controversial component is a restructuring of US public debt entailing a forced exchange of some US treasuries for long-dated (100-year or perpetual), low- or zero-interest securities to lengthen maturities and provide secure funding. Alternatively foreign holders of US government bonds can place them in escrow or pay an 'user fee'. Controls over capital movements into and out of the US are possible.

Another element is extracting tributes and territories. The proposed minerals and energy agreement with Ukraine is a brazen attempt to extract payment for 'services provided'. A similar deal with the Congo has also been negotiated. Allies can increase defence spending, benefitting US armament manufacturers who dominate supply, or pay for American protection. A demand for stakes in semiconductor makers in return for support for Taiwan is not fanciful.

Territorial claims (over Canada, Greenland, the Panama Canal and the Gaza Riviera) alongside threats or actual military actions, such as those in Iran, in the name of national and international security seek to expand the US dominion. After all, Alexander became great by conquering much of the then known world. President Trump, who identifies with the godfathers in Mafia movies, misunderstands the opposition from affected parties and geo-political rivals.

Greek letters, equations and citations of misunderstood academic articles notwithstanding, the tariff plan looks like something an AI engine would produce. The latest threat to some trading partners is for tariffs of 25-40 percent unless their companies choose to manufacture in the US. Any reciprocal tariffs on American products or membership of the 'anti-American' BRICS, he warned, would trigger additional duties. The '90 trade deals in 90 days' has not eventuated.

A trade war is likely. As the US has significant surpluses on the trade of services such as technology, damaging tariffs or outright bans on US services exports would hurt successful US industries. The US will be unable, in the short run, to substitute certain essential items resulting in higher prices or shortages. The assumption that overseas firms will absorb the tariffs is incorrect. In 2016, prices of goods imported into the US did not rise because of the stronger dollar but the administration has stated it now wants a weaker currency. President Trump has threatened to punish, presumably through price controls, US car makers if they pass on the increased cost of inputs transferring the cost to businesses from consumers.

Some imports may be replaced with local production, but it would take years, increase prices and reduce choices. Re-shoring high-end manufacturing will struggle due to the lack of requisite skills given the resistance to immigration. It will not create the expected jobs as these industries are typically highly automated. Tariff revenues will end up being redirected as subsidies to many affected industries. Ultimately, national income depends on importing what you cannot produce or cannot produce at low costs. The tariffs will benefit US's trading partners. Barriers to exports into the US will mean producers are forced to cut prices as they divert stock to other markets as the EU has warned. Other economies will reflate shifting to domestic consumption rather than exports effectively bypassing America as the cost of accessing what President Trump calls "extraordinary economy of the United States—the number one market in the world" becomes prohibitive. Global exports to America of $3.2 trillion are not irreplaceable.

The US administration seems not to grasp that the US dollar's dominance, rather than manufacturing, is critical to America's position. Restructuring US debt as suggested would constitute a technical default on its obligations. MAGA would become 'Making America Greece or Argentina' (both defaulters on their foreign debt). This would accelerate capital flight making it more difficult to finance America's budget and trade deficit. It risks permanent damage to US capital markets. Up to 70 percent of all funds that flow through the US market are from overseas investors recycled through American banks and asset managers because of low domestic savings. As much of this is re-routed over time, New York's prominence as a financial centre will diminish. Attempts to extract tribute and expand territories challenge other nations' sovereignty. Few will pay for uncertain US protection or surrender to it.

The administration's path, which ignores economics and history, is indeterminate. The planning and execution have been haphazard. But as Winston Churchill, to whom Trump has compared himself, observed: "The statesman who yields to war fever must realise that once the signal is given, he is no longer the master of policy but the slave of unforeseeable and uncontrollable events."

A BITTER PILL TO SWALLOW

PRATIK KANJILAL
Senior Fellow, Henry J Leir Institute of Migration and Human Security, The Fletcher School, Tufts University

SPEAKEASY

LATE last month, a paper in The Lancet Global by a team of researchers led by Maximilian J Wilfinger of the University of Notre Dame, US, reported that several chemotherapy drugs administered in sub-Saharan Africa had failed quality tests. About 20 percent of the drugs were either ineffective or had dangerous side effects. The products of 17 manufacturers failed tests. All but one are Indian firms.

The Bureau of Investigative Journalism enlarged the story. Like earlier episodes in which paediatric syrups exported from India killed children overseas, this episode reminds us that merely having a volume lead in generics does not guarantee that India can be the "world's pharmacy", as the government likes to advertise it.

These were the big picture stories, but the incident also has a personal, human angle. Personal stories are of course anecdotal, but that does not automatically devalue them, because we are not doing statistics here. So, to get personal, a couple of years ago, someone close to me was diagnosed with an aggressive paediatric cancer. We mostly hear of research successes, and the general impression is that cancers are becoming curable, or at least manageable. Indeed, they are, but for many cancers, treatment has not improved in 30 years. For perspective, it means that the treatment of the cancer we're talking about has not changed since V P Singh was prime minister.

A paediatric oncologist in Delhi told me a fundamental truth: "Cancer doesn't affect only the patient, but the whole family." That's especially true with difficult variants of the disease. The patient and family are suddenly cut off from normal life. It is as if an invisible wall stands between them and the majority who, thank heavens, have no experience of the disease. What divides these worlds is the idea that life is uncertain. Families with cancer know this; the rest of the world has gratefully forgotten it. Our legal wills still begin with the words, "Since life is uncertain," but we are fortunate. We take a course of pills to brush off diseases which were fearsome killers just two generations ago, like pleurisy and typhoid. After penicillin, we are no longer wired to think of untimely death as an everyday reality. Most of us feel it is unnatural to live with uncertainty.

But cancer families know only uncertainty, and questions about some cancer drugs from India amplify it. Indeed, they may have seen the effects reported in the Lancet paper in their own patients. One round of chemo does not produce the expected side effects, while another round is bio-horror. Apparently, this is because the drugs delivered contain too little or too much of the active ingredient. Are manufacturers to blame? Some of the companies whose products failed have denied responsibility and questioned the patency of supply chains instead.

A friend in a US company which makes systems for tracking drugs through supply chains says Indian manufacturers are interested in stringent assurances only for export to first world markets. For the rest of the world, and for the domestic market, it's not a priority.

AP

A study has revealed that cancer drugs exported to sub-Saharan Africa by several Indian manufacturers failed quality tests. This follows the scandal of Indian syrups that led to the death of children in western Africa and central Asia. Such cases puncture claims to be the 'world's pharmacy'

Now, another personal anecdote—a friend in a small town in West Bengal, who has struggled with cancer for decades, has just crowdsourced for his treatment. The drug he needs costs about ₹20 lakh to import from the US, but ₹4 lakh from Germany. If it was manufactured in India, it would have cost a fraction of the German rate. Variations in drug prices across borders are a scandalous uncertainty.

That is why poorer countries, like the markets examined in the Lancet report, source drugs from India. But if the price for the rebate is quality, then the poor of the world are paying it disproportionately. Families have to marshal all their resources to finance cancer treatment. Middle class families sometimes have to sell assets and even their homes. If they later find that the medication was deficient, they cannot afford to change course or start over again. The sheer human cost, at a time when the incidence of cancer is steadily increasing, calls for more oversight, whether quality deficits owe to production facilities or supply chains.

There is also a mercantile cost. India wants to become a significant provider of the world's medications, particularly generics. But the health sector is built on reputation, and India's prospects are damaged by chronic problems like counterfeit drugs and poor quality control, and a shortage of skilled professionals. The skills shortage is the result of failing to invest in education like China has done after Mao's time.

The effect of the skill shortage will be sharpened as pharma pivots to hi-tech, and frontline disciplines like personalised medicine and AI-powered drug discovery become industry standards. While the government and the industry have been reforming for regulatory compliance and quality assurance, significant gaps remain and commercial pressures have eroded public trust in the health sector. But affordability doesn't have to be at the expense of quality. Decades ago, Cipla did provide the quality HIV generics to African nations at $1 a day, as its chairman Yusuf Hamied had promised.

Indian pharma had barely recovered from the scandal of supplying toxic syrups to children in the Gambia, Cameroon and Uzbekistan, which had killed over 100, and now cancer drugs are under suspicion. Lack of international trust in product quality would hamper India's pharma sector, which is a notable exception to the failure of the Make in India project. And apart from the mercantile cost, there is the human cost to millions of cancer patients and their families the world over. (Views are personal)

'Even 1 image': Doval dares foreign media

Asks proof of damages to any Indian structure during Op Sindoor, says 9 terror targets in Pak destroyed with precision

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

NSA Ajit Doval at the 62nd convocation ceremony of IIT Madras | ASHWIN PRASATH

INDIA smashed nine terror targets with precision, crisscrossing Pakistan, under Operation Sindoor, National Security Advisor Ajit Doval said in Chennai on Friday and dared foreign media to show "even one image" of damage to any Indian structure in the war.

Speaking for the first time in public about the operation, Doval said he is proud of the role played by indigenous technologies in the targeted attacks. "We are really proud of how much indigenous content was used (in Operation Sindoor). From BrahMos to radars to integrated air control and command systems, we used entirely Indian content," said NSA Doval.

Speaking at the 62nd convocation ceremony of IIT Madras, Doval said the entire operation was carried out with precision within 23 minutes and caused no collateral damage to India. Urging students to become technological warriors for the country, he underscored the need for technological self-reliance to protect the nation from external threats. "India will completely indigenise its communication systems to safeguard national security and ensure data protection," he asserted.

Speaking about Operation Sindoor, he said nine terrorist targets across Pakistan, not in the border areas, were mapped and the attack was carried out with utmost precision. "We missed none. We hit nowhere else except that," he said. The NSA also criticised the western media for its distorted coverage of Operation Sindoor.

"Foreign press said Pakistan did that and this. But you show me one photograph, one image, which shows any damage to India. Not even a glass pane has been broken," said Doval, challenging them to present even a single image showing damage in India. Citing the link between warfare and technology, Doval advised students to develop technologies to build India's resilience across critical infrastructure.

Highlighting the importance of embracing new-age technologies like Artificial Intelligence (AI), Doval said AI is going to change the world, and if India wants to lead the world, it must lead in AI, quantum computing, and space tech, among others.

Drawing a comparison with China in developing 5G technology, Doval cited India's success story and said the Chinese took around 12 years and invested $300 billion to develop 5G, but India managed to create an indigenous alternative in just 2.5 years. He further said India is progressing rapidly and advised students against brain drain and instead asked them to contribute to the country's growth.

"Your alumni network is a global asset. But don't just aim for personal comfort abroad, true success lies in what you contribute, not where you live," he said.

"When we complete 100 years of Independence, you will be in the prime of your careers. India may then have a GDP of over 30 trillion, the per capita income may be around $22,000, and we will have a working population of 1.1 billion," he noted.

Padma Subrahmanyam, Padma Vibhushan awardee and noted Bharatnatyam dancer, was the guest of honour at the convocation. Subrahmanyam said the historic victory of Operation Sindoor was a manifestation of adherence to the valour that the Bhagavad Gita preaches.

"As a proud Indian, I have always offered my salutations to our jawans, who are our national guardian angels," she said, congratulating Doval for his role in the operation.

Director of IIT-Madras V Kamakoti presented the annual report of the institution and said more than 100 deep-tech startups have been incubated for the first time in one financial year (2024-25), and the institute has filed more than 400 patents.

As many as 3,661 students, including 820 B Tech students and 529 Phd students, were awarded degrees at the convocation ceremony.

'if India wants to lead world, it must lead in AI'

Highlighting the importance of embracing new-age technologies like Artificial Intelligence (AI), National Security Adviser Ajit Doval said AI is going to change the world, and if India wants to lead the world, it must lead in AI, quantum computing, and space tech, among others. Drawing a comparison with China in developing 5G technology, Doval cited India's success story and said the Chinese took 12 years and invested $300 billion to develop 5G, but India managed to create an indigenous alternative in just two-and-a-half years. He added that India is progressing rapidly.

Govt begins collecting signatures of MPs to impeach Justice Varma

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

THE government has initiated the process of collecting signatures from Members of Parliament (MPs) to move a motion in Parliament seeking the impeachment of Allahabad HC Justice Yashwant Varma.

The judge is facing corruption charges following the discovery of burnt cash at his official residence in Delhi.

Sources confirmed that signatures from several MPs in the Lok Sabha have already been collected, signaling that the motion might be introduced in the Lower House. Union Minister of Parliamentary Affairs Kiren Rijiju recently stated that opposition parties have given in-principle approval to support the motion during the upcoming monsoon session from July 21 to August 21.

Rijiju also indicated that the collection of signatures would begin soon but clarified that it had not yet been decided whether the motion would be presented in the Lok Sabha or Rajya Sabha. The Congress has expressed support for the impeachment motion, with sources saying that the leadership has instructed floor managers to identify MPs willing to sign the notice. Last month, Congress leader Abhishek Singhvi urged Justice Varma to resign voluntarily to avoid a "constitutional dismissal."

Similarly, Congress Whip in the Lok Sabha, Manickam Tagore, emphasised the importance of maintaining the judiciary's dignity. The controversy surrounding Justice Varma began after a fire at his residence in March revealed several sacks of burnt banknotes.

Although Varma denied knowledge of the money, an in-house probe led by Chief Justice Sanjeev Khanna found him culpable. He has since refused to resign, prompting Khanna to refer the matter to the President and Prime Minister.

Siang hydro project to get filip in Arunachal, Mishra to chair meet

The primary agenda of the meeting is to assess the progress of drilling sites and other developmental and rehabilitation projects... take stock of the situation regarding the NHPC communication strategy, establishment of a model village, livelihood programme, status of alternative roads, and progress of the new township

Senior official

WITH an eye on China developing a major hydroelectricity project in the vicinity of Arunachal Pradesh, the Centre has accelerated the development of its mega dam in the Siang upper valley in the state, which will be the country's biggest, despite protests by local villagers who are at risk of eviction due to the potential submergence of their land.

The Prime Minister's Office (PMO) is set to assess the progress of the Upper Siang Multipurpose Storage Project, India's strategic water and power project, on July 15.

Dr PK Mishra, Principal Secretary of the Prime Minster, will chair the high-level review meeting in New Delhi, senior officials said.

The meeting will be attended by the Home Secretary, Foreign Secretary, Secretary (Water Resources Department), Arunachal Pradesh Chief Secretary and DGP, Secretary (Road Transport and Highways), CMD of the National Hydropower Corporation (NHPC), and Intelligence Bureau Director.

The PMO has directed Secretary (Power), to give a presentation on the progress of the project, the officials said. "The primary agenda of the meeting is to assess the progress of drilling sites and other developmental and rehabilitation projects," an official said.

"The meeting will also take stock of the situation regarding the NHPC communication strategy, establishment of a model village, livelihood programme, status of alternative roads, and progress of the new township," the official added.

The government has planned to invest over ₹9,000 crore in constructing 12 hydropower stations that will generate more than 11,500 MW of electricity.

This development is seen as a strategic move to counter China's plans to build a 'super dam' in Medog county in Tibet, on the Yarlung Tsangpo River – the Brahmaputra in India – which has the potential to generate 60,000 MW power.

However, the project has been facing protests from villagers and tribes. They burnt down a drilling vehicle, seized many, and didn't allow an NHPC officer to conduct a pre-feasibility survey of the project.

"We want our state government to inform the ground realities in the proposed July 15 meeting," said Ebo Mili of North East Human Rights, spearheading the protest.

Ebo wrote a letter to the Arunachal Chief Secretary, urging them to give accurate information about human rights violations around the project. "We request your good office to ensure that the accurate and comprehensive reports, reflecting the human rights violations and the strong opposition from project-affected families, are submitted to the Prime Minister during the high-level meeting on July 15. This will enable a fair and informed discussion on the Siang project and its implications for the affected communities," stated the letter.

In 2024, around 75,000 children died from AIDS-related causes compared to 2,40,000 in 2010

PERMANENT discontinuation of US funds threatens to reverse gains achieved in HIV/AIDS treatment and prevention as it could lead to over four million additional AIDS-related deaths and around six million additional new HIV infections by 2029, a latest UNAIDS report says.

The report, however, highlighted the remarkable efforts of communities and governments that have been key in bringing down the numbers of new HIV infections by 40% and AIDS-related deaths by 56% since 2010 – before the sudden stoppage of the US funding six months back triggered a crisis in global AIDS response.

"This is not just a funding gap – it's a ticking time bomb," said UNAIDS Executive Director Winnie Byanyima. "We have seen services vanish overnight. Health workers have been sent home. And people – especially children and key populations – are being pushed out of care."

The 2025 Global AIDS Update, AIDS, Crisis and the Power to Transform report said a historic fund crunch is threatening to unravel decades of progress unless countries can make radical shifts in HIV programming and funding.

"Despite marked progress in the HIV response in 2024, the weakening aid consensus, and significant and abrupt funding shortfalls in the HIV response in 2025 have triggered widespread disruption across health systems and cuts to frontline health workers has halted HIV prevention programmes, jeopardising HIV treatment services," the report said.

"In time of crisis, the world must choose transformation over retreat," Byanyima said. "Together, we can still end AIDS as a public health threat by 2030 – if we act with urgency, unity, and unwavering commitment."

The report also said among the 60 low and middle-income countries included in the report, 25 have indicated increases in domestic budgets for their HIV responses in 2026.

However, it added, it is not enough to replace the scale of international funding in countries that are heavily reliant.

Even before the large-scale service disruption, the data for 2024 shows that 9.2 million people afflicted with HIV were still not accessing life-saving treatment services last year.

Among those were 6,20,000 children aged 0-14 years living with HIV but not on treatment which contributed to 75,000 AIDS-related deaths among children in 2024 out of the total 6,30 000 people who died from AIDS-related causes, 61% of them in sub-Saharan Africa.

Over 2,10,000 adolescent girls and young women aged 15-24 acquired HIV in 2024 – an average of 570 new infections daily.

The report also highlighted rise in punitive laws criminalising same-sex relationships, gender identity, and drug use is amplifying the crisis, making HIV services inaccessible.

UNAIDS asserted that every dollar invested in HIV response not only saves lives but strengthens health systems and promotes inclusive development.

Revised English textbooks for Class V & VIII depict women as achievers | EXPRESS

IN keeping with the present times, women have been portrayed in leadership and demanding career roles in the new English textbooks for Class V and VIII students launched by the National Council for Educational Resource and Training (NCERT) this week.

Massive changes have been made to showcase the achievements of ancient Indian scholars and scientists in place of those of Western achievers in school textbooks, and to project India's tourist spots as the country's seven wonders, according to sources. An interesting innovation that is likely to keep students engaged with their books is the QR code imprinted in each chapter, which, when scanned, plays a video of the lesson.

NCERT textbooks for all subjects are being revised in line with the National Education Policy 2020 and the National Curriculum Framework for School Education 2023.

In 'Santoor', the Class V English textbook, the 'Let us explore' section poses a query to students. It asks which vocation students would pursue. It features numerous illustrations, including those of a woman pilot and photographer juxtaposed alongside a male chef and florist. The traditional careers for women are showcased, including those of a dancer and a teacher. "Interestingly, a chapter on Panchayat has a woman Panchayat head. The 33% reservation in local bodies, implemented by a few State governments, has ensured a strong presence of women in this decision-making body in villages."

The book also teaches kids the importance of water conservation and makes learning fun with lessons on 'Gilli Danda' and hockey. "A chapter on Tenali Raman has been introduced to teach children the art of solving problems in an entertaining way," a source said.

The revamped Class VIII book titled 'Poorvi' is a celebration of prominent Indians who have shaped the country, past and present. The achievements of Bibha Chowdhury, India's first woman particle physicist, are highlighted.

Among other heroes presented are India's first Param Vir Chakra awardee, Major Somnath Sharma, who was martyred on November 3, 1947, while stopping the advancing troops from Pakistan in Srinagar's Budgam Valley during the Indo-Pak war in 1947 and Verghese Kurien, the father of the White Revolution. Indian astronomer-astrologer Varahamihira and leading mathematician Aryabhatta also make their debut in the textbook.

The book also has Seven Natural Wonders of India (in place of the world). Among them are the magical glowing waters of Kumbalangi village of Kerala due to bioluminescence; the Magnetic Hills at Leh in Ladakh which defy gravity; the Invisible Chandipur Village in Odisha; the Mangrove Forests in Sunderbans, Living Root Bridge of Meghalaya, the Flower Valley of Uttarakhand and the enigmatic Lonar Lake in Maharashtra which turn pink.

Showcasing 'man-made wonders' of India

Among man-made wonders showcased for children are Gujarat's Statue of Unity, Mumbai's Bandra-Worli Sealink, Bhupen Hazarika Setu in Assam, the Vittala Temple in Karnataka's Hampi, featuring musical pillars, and the Kallanai Dam in Tamil Nadu, built by Chola King Karikala, an achievement in ancient Indian engineering.

As part of this year's enhanced security framework, over 8,500 troops have been deployed, supported by a wide array of technological and operational resources.

The Army said of the operation: "A dynamic counter-terrorism grid, prophylactic security deployment, and corridor protection measures have been instituted. Comprehensive assistance to civil authorities is also being provided, particularly in disaster management and emergency response."

The Army said a Counter-Unmanned Aerial System grid has been set up and Bomb Detection & Disposal Squads have been deployed. Unmanned Aerial Vehicles are deployed for live monitoring of Yatra routes and the Holy Cave.

In keeping with terrain and altitude, medical services have been given importance. More than 150 doctors and medical personnel, with two Advanced Dressing Stations, nine Medical Aid Posts, a 100-bed hospital, and 26 oxygen booths supported by 2,00,000 litres of oxygen. The SAJ Cave is situated at an elevation of over 12,000 ft above mean sea level, and the temperatures at times fall below zero.

In anticipation of bad weather, emergency rations for 25,000 persons, Quick Reaction Teams, tent cities, water points, have been arrangedalong the route.

After I-T notice, Shinde minister seen with Maha bag full of cash

Oppn cries kickbacks, asks Fadnavis to act against Shiv Sena leader; Shirsat says clip a plot

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

SANJAY Shirsat, Maharashtra Minister for Social Justice from the Shiv Sena headed by Deputy Chief Minister Eknath Shinde, is once again in the dock after his half-naked video surfaced on social media, showing a bag of cash lying near his bed.

The video surfaced a day after reports emerged of Shirsat facing scrutiny from the Income Tax Department regarding a significant increase in his declared assets, which surged from ₹3.3 crore in 2019 to ₹35 crore in 2024. The IT department has requested an explanation for the rise in his wealth between the 2019 and 2024 Assembly elections.

The Opposition demanded Shirsat's resignation, saying it was not the first time he had been caught red-handed. NCP-SP spokesperson Clyde Crasto asked if, after the video surfaced, Chief Minister and Home Minister Devendra Fadnavis would have the courage to act against the alleged corrupt minister who got cash as kickbacks. No wonder the Shinde party MLA got the tag, "50 Kokhe, Sab Kuch Okay", he remarked.

Shiv Sena (UBT) Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Raut was the first to share a video on Friday, purportedly showing Shirsat in possession of a large bag full of cash at his home.

Raut said that Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Home Minister Amit Shah and Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis should take note of this video. It shows Shirsat sitting in his bedroom in a luxurious apartment, smoking a cigarette and talking on the phone. A bag containing a stash of cash is half open near his bed. In the video, his pet dog can also be seen in his bedroom. The value of the residence where the Sena minister stays is said to be between ₹25-30 crore.

Raut, in his Hindi message on social media, said, "This thrilling video should be watched by the honourable Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah! What's going on in the country! (This video of a Maharashtra minister says a lot)".

Sanjay Shirsat defended himself, calling the video a pre-planned conspiracy to frame him. He stated that the video was taken from his bedroom, but he was unaware of the suitcase allegedly containing money.

FIR against Sena MLA for beating canteen staffer

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

A day after beating the MLA canteen employee, a non-cognisable offence case has been registered under sections 352 and 115(2) of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) against Shiv Sena MLA Sanjay Gaikwad at Mumbai's Marine Drive Police Station.

Gaikwad had allegedly assaulted the canteen staff over being served poor-quality, stale food. The incident caused uproar in the state Legislative Council, with members demanding action against the errant Sena MLA.

Maharashtra CM Devendra Fadnavis denounced the incident, saying such behaviour sends a "wrong message" about legislators misusing their power. He also ordered the police to initiate the probe and take action against the MLA.

Maha House clears public security bill amid Oppn uproar

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Maharashtra Legislative Council on Friday passed a special public security bill to curb urban naxalism. In protest, the Opposition, including the Congress, Shiv Sena (UBT), and NCP, staged a walkout and submitted a dissent note.

Maharashtra would be the fifth state to pass this special public security Bill after Telangana, Andhra Pradesh, Odisha and Jharkhand. In the state Legislative Assembly, the bill was passed with one dissent from Communist Party of India (Marxist) MLA Vinod Nikole, while no members from Congress, NCP, SP, and Shiv Sena (UBT) raised objections.

Uddhav Thackeray referred to the new legislation as the "BJP's protection law," suggesting that it would prevent anyone from speaking against the BJP. He said the draft law did not mention extremist left ideology. "The Left-wing extremist organisation has been mentioned in the initial part of the draft law, but later on, no such thing is mentioned. Most of the provisions in the law are quite vague to misuse against the political opponent of the BJP by labelling them as urban naxals. Therefore, we are against this law. The government should mention that the law is against anti-nationals, terrorists and Naxalites, etc. The bill should be brought again with these amendments," Uddhav Thackeray said.

The Opposition parties also wrote an eight-page dissent note and submitted it to the Council Chairman Ram Shinde, saying that there are several loopholes in the bill which can be misused by the ruling party to target people and organisations with specific ideologies.

The dissent letter states that this new law will empower those who already hold power, leading to a concentration of power. "And, this will lead to an authoritarian regime and dictatorship. If someone disagrees with the ruling party, that person and organisation will be targeted by labelling them urban naxals," the letter stated.

Tej Pratap eyeing Mahua constituency again

Lalu Prasad's elder son, Tej Pratap Yadav, recently visited Mahua in Vaishali district, fuelling speculation about his political comeback. He won his first election in 2015. In 2020, he switched to another Yadav-dominated seat, Hasanpur in Samastipur. However, this time he won't contest under the RJD symbol, as he has been expelled from the party. His family has also isolated him. During his Mahua visit, Tej Pratap's vehicle only carried a banner that read, 'Tej Pratap Team'. He promised the people he'd open a medical and an engineering college if elected this time. It is still unclear whether he will contest as an independent or form a new party.

Teen molestation accused dragged out of Arunachal police station, lynched

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

IN a shocking incident, a mob at Roing in Arunachal Pradesh's Lower Dibang Valley district dragged a 17-year-old boy accused of molestation out of a police station on Friday afternoon and lynched him.

The deceased, said to be a construction labourer, was accused of molesting at least seven female students of Roing's Mount Carmel School—aged between five and seven years—who stayed at the hostel.

The teenager was detained Thursday and lodged at the police station. But the situation spiralled out of control on Friday as irate parents and locals stormed the police station, dragged the boy out and thrashed him badly, leaving him grievously injured.

The cops rushed to his rescue and took him to a local hospital, with the mob in hot pursuit. As the rabble got hold of him again, they battered him so mercilessly that he died. Police reinforcements arrived shortly after the incident and brought the situation under control.

MHA report on deportation of 6 by Delhi cops sought

KAUSHIK PRADHAN @ Kolkata

THE Calcutta High Court on Friday sought a report from the Union Home Ministry by Wednesday on the alleged deportation of six persons, including minors, to Bangladesh by the Delhi Police. Chief The Secretary of West Bengal, Manoj Pant, has been directed to contact his counterpart in Delhi and submit a report to the court for the next hearing on Wednesday.

The bench of Justices Tapabrata Chakraborty and Reetobroto Mitra heard two habeas corpus writs, one relating to the alleged deportation of a family comprising a couple and their eight-year-old minor son and the other related to their close relatives. Counsel for the petitioners stated that they learned about the deportation to Bangladesh through media reports. The counsel for the West Bengal Government endorsed that claim.

Claiming that the "deported" persons were citizens of India, the counsel said that they had communicated to the Delhi Police that the victims possessed necessary identity documents proving their Indian citizenship. They asked the police to obtain the papers for scrutiny. "The reply is still awaited," the counsel submitted.

The counsel said that the police allegedly deported the family to Bangladesh without producing them before the Foreigners Tribunal as provided under the law. The counsel for the other three detainees from Birbhum submitted that the Delhi Police had picked them up from the Rohini Police Station area in Delhi and deported them to Bangladesh. Justice Chakraborty asked counsel Dhiraj Trivedi, representing the Union of India, to assist the court. "I will inform Delhi Police and request them to appoint a lawyer," Trivedi said.

TMC, BJP in war of words over detention of Bengali speaking migrant workers

KAUSHIK PRADHAN @ Kolkata

THE slugfest between the BJP and the Trinamool Congress over the detention of Bengali-speaking migrant workers in different states on the suspicion of their being Bangladeshis continued on Friday, as both parties took to social media to attack each other.

BJP leader Amit Malviya claimed that 335 out of 444 suspected illegal migrants detained in Odisha had fake documents. The Trinamool Congress shot back by terming it a "misinformation campaign of the BJP".

Reacting to Trinamool Congress MP Mahua Moitra's claim that "innocent Bengalis" were harassed, Malviya wrote on X: "335 out of 444 had fake documents — issued by none other than the TMC government in West Bengal. TMC is flooding India with Bangladeshi infiltrators, who work in other states but return to Bengal to vote for Mamata Banerjee."

He added, "Every state must be extremely cautious while hiring labour or employees carrying fake Bengal-issued documents. This is not just a demographic threat, it's a national security concern."

The Trinamool Congress sharply attacked the BJP, posting on X, "Stop the lies. Stop the witch-hunt. Stop criminalising an entire community just because they speak Bengali." The Trinamool Congress wrote, "After the Calcutta High Court's order, the @MohanMOdisha Govt released most of the workers. If they were truly "Bangladeshis", why were they let go? If they are "Bangladeshis", let the Odisha Govt. present documentary proof"

Accusing the BJP, the Trinamool Congress said, "Now it's your turn to produce evidence for all those you're labeling as 'Bangladeshis'. You are urging other states to reject documents issued by Govt of WB."

Sharp dip in U'khand panchayat poll candidates

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

ALARM bells are ringing at the Uttarakhand State Election Commission as a startling lack of enthusiasm among prospective candidates threatens the integrity of the state-level Panchayat elections scheduled for the end of this month.

According to official sources, this election has seen only 25,587 candidates come forward for 55,587 posts. It marks a considerable 16.8% decline from the last Panchayat elections held in 2019, when 30,752 candidates contested 55,574 positions. Since the formation of Uttarakhand, this election once again highlights a waning interest among traditional public representatives in contesting local polls. Conversely, the changing rural landscape has seen "enthusiastic and celebratory" participation from former servicemen and bureaucrats, bringing a new dynamic to the electoral arena.

While there still is healthy competition for the coveted Gram Pradhan (village head)

post, the participation of Panchayat members, a crucial element of local governance, has seen a particularly sharp decline, mirroring the overall 16.8% drop.

The State Election Commission is not taking this trend lightly. A senior official stated, "Following the declaration of election results, we will conduct a thorough deep dive to meticulously study and investigate the underlying reasons behind this significant disinterest." Officials are reportedly "perplexed" by the significant drop in nominations. The alarming disinterest has not gone unnoticed by local observers.

South African cheetah siblings turn out farmers' best friends in west MP

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

A male cheetah coalition brought in from South Africa is emerging as the farmers' best friend in the Mandsaur and Neemuch districts of western Madhya Pradesh.

The siblings, Prabhas and Pavak, who relocated from the Kuno National Park (KNP) of Sheopur district to the Gandhi Sagar Wildlife Sanctuary in the Mandsaur-Neemuch region on April 20, have been hunting prey with elan under the watchful eyes of two tracking teams Nilgais (blue bulls) have turned out to be the most preferred prey of the two cheetahs in the last 80 days at the wildlife sanctuary, located on the MP-Rajasthan border. Nilgais are perennial irritants for farmers in western MP because they cause substantial crop damage, leading to major financial losses. Farmers struggle to protect their crops from these large antelopes. They are also a contributing factor to many road accidents in the area.

"Out of the 30-plus kills in the last 80 days, 70% have been nilgais, while the remaining 30% included spotted deer, chinkara and hares. Over the last few weeks, the two male cheetahs, aged six years, have been killing nilgai every second or third day," Division Forest Officer (DFO-Gandhi Sagar Wildlife Sanctuary) Sanjay Raikhere said on Friday.

The issue was also mentioned in the last Budget Session, when the Speaker asked the government to resolve the problem. The forest department plans to use helicopters to drive away nilgais and blackbucks, and add them to the prey base of the two cheetahs in the Kuno National Park and the Gandhi Sagar Sanctuary.

The cheetahs' preference for Nilgai meat may prompt the department to include nilgais, along with blackbucks, in the prey relocation exercise.

Dad blames barbs for murdering Radhika

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE post-mortem report of a 25-year-old former state-level tennis player, who was allegedly shot dead by her father on Thursday, revealed that she was hit by four bullets from behind in Gurugram's Sector 57.Deepak Yadav, the accused, was remanded in one-day police custody on Friday.

The autopsy was conducted by a board of three doctors. They recovered four bullets from the body. After the examination, the body was handed over to the family members who cremated her at their village in Wazirabad. Radhika was living with her parents in Sushant Lok-II, Gurugram Sector-57. She was shot dead by her father using his licensed firearm, the police said.

A case regarding the murder was registered at Sector-56 police station based on the complaint of the victim's uncle (the brother of the accused) and Deepak was arrested. His revolver and five empty cartridges were recovered from the crime spot.

Deepak confessed he shot Radhika because he was often mocked at for living off her income, police sources said. Police also issued a statement claiming the tennis academy Radhika ran was the bone of contention between the father and daughter. The accused, who police said was depressed for the last 15 days, also felt he was financially well off and had good rental income so there was no need for his daughter to run an academy.

In his complaint, Radhika's uncle Kuldeep Yadav said her mother Manju was present on the first floor when she was shot dead. Deepak, Manju, and Radhika lived on the first floor, while he lived on the ground floor along with his family.

US state department firing over 1,300 staff

Foreign service officers get 120 days' leave; civil servants to get 60-day separation period before losing their jobs

KUALA LUMPUR

THE US State Department is firing more than 1,300 employees on Friday in line with a dramatic reorganization plan from the Trump administration that critics say will damage America's global leadership and efforts to counter threats abroad.

The department is sending layoff notices to 1,107 civil servants and 246 foreign service officers with domestic assignments in the United States, according to a senior department official who spoke on the condition of anonymity to discuss personnel matters before individual notices were emailed to affected employees.

Federal workers and supporters rally outside of the State Department | AP

Foreign service officers affected will be placed immediately on administrative leave for 120 days, after which they will formally lose their jobs, according to an internal notice obtained by The Associated Press. For most civil servants, the separation period is 60 days, it said.

"In connection with the departmental reorganization ... the department is streamlining domestic operations to focus on diplomatic priorities," the notice says. "Headcount reductions have been carefully tailored to affect non-core functions, duplicative or redundant offices, and offices where considerable efficiencies may be found from centralization or consolidation of functions and responsibilities."

While lauded by President Donald Trump, Secretary of State Marco Rubio and their Republican allies as overdue and necessary to make the department leaner, more nimble and more efficient, the cuts have been roundly criticized by current and former diplomats who say they will weaken U.S. influence and its ability to counter existing and emerging threats abroad.

The Trump administration has pushed to reshape American diplomacy and worked aggressively to shrink the size of the federal government, including mass dismissals driven by the Department of Government Efficiency and moves to dismantle whole departments like the U.S. Agency for International Development and the Education Department.

USAID, the six-decade-old foreign assistance agency, was absorbed into the State Department last week after the administration dramatically slashed foreign aid funding.

A recent ruling by the Supreme Court cleared the way for the layoffs to start, while lawsuits challenging the legality of the cuts continue to play out. The department had formally advised staffers on Thursday that it would be sending layoff notices to some of them soon.

The job cuts are large but considerably less than many had feared. AP

US is selling weapons to NATO allies to give to Ukraine

WASHINGTON

THE United States is selling weapons to its NATO allies in Europe so they can provide them to Ukraine as it struggles to fend off a recent escalation in Russia's drone and missile attacks, President Donald Trump and his chief diplomat said.

"We're sending weapons to NATO, and NATO is paying for those weapons, 100%," Trump said in an interview with NBC late Thursday. "So what we're doing is, the weapons that are going out are going to NATO, and then NATO is going to be giving those weapons (to Ukraine), and NATO is paying for those weapons."

Secretary of State Marco Rubio said Friday that some of the US-made weapons that Ukraine is seeking are deployed with NATO allies in Europe. Those weapons could be transferred to Ukraine, with European countries buying replacements from the US, he said.

In the latest attacks, a Russian drone barrage targeted the center of Kharkiv just before dawn Friday, injuring nine people and damaging a maternity hospital in Ukraine's second-largest city, officials said.

Mothers with newborns were being evacuated to a different medical facility, Kharkiv Mayor Ihor Terekhov wrote on Telegram. He didn't say whether anyone at the hospital was among the injured. Also, a daytime drone attack on the southern city of Odesa injured nine people. "There is no silence in Ukraine," Zelenskyy said after the Kharkiv bombardment. Kyiv, the Ukrainian capital, has endured repeated and intensifying drone attacks in recent weeks. AP

Appeals court tosses plea deal for alleged 9/11 mastermind

WASHINGTON

A divided federal appeals court on Friday threw out an agreement that would have allowed accused Sept. 11 mastermind Khalid Sheikh Mohammed to plead guilty in a deal sparing him the risk of execution for al-Qaida's 2001 attacks.

The decision by a panel of the federal appeals court in Washington, DC, undoes an attempt to wrap up more than two decades of military prosecution beset by legal and logistical troubles. It signals there will be no quick end to the long struggle by the US military and successive administrations to bring to justice the man charged with planning one of the deadliest attacks ever on the United States.

The deal, negotiated over two years and approved by military prosecutors and the Pentagon's senior official for Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, a year ago, stipulated life sentences without parole for Mohammed and two co-defendants. Mohammed is accused of developing and directing the plot to crash hijacked airliners into the World Trade Center and the Pentagon. Another of the hijacked planes flew into a field in Pennsylvania. The men also would have been obligated to answer any lingering questions that families of the victims have about the attacks.

But then-Defense Secretary Lloyd Austin repudiated the deal, saying a decision on the death penalty in an attack as grave as September 11 should only be made by the defense secretary.

The panel had previously put the agreement on hold while it considered the appeal, first filed by the Biden administration and then continued under President Donald Trump. AP

Trump slaps 35% tariff on Canada, PM says working on new framework

WASHINGTON

PRESIDENT Donald Trump said in a letter that he will raise taxes on many imported goods from Canada to 35%, deepening a rift between two North American countries that have suffered a debilitating blow to their decades-old alliance.

The Thursday letter to Canadian Prime Minister Mark Carney is an aggressive increase to the top 25% tariff rates that Trump first imposed in March after months of threats. Trump's tariffs were allegedly in an effort to get Canada to crack down on fentanyl smuggling despite the relatively modest trafficking in the drug from that country. Trump has also expressed frustration with a trade deficit with Canada that largely reflects oil purchases by America.

"I must mention that the flow of Fentanyl is hardly the only challenge we have with Canada, which has many Tariff, and Non-Tariff, Policies and Trade Barriers," Trump wrote in the letter.

The higher rates would go into effect August 1, creating a tense series of weeks ahead for the global economy as recent gains in the S&P 500 stock index suggest many investors think Trump will ultimately back down on the increases. But stock market futures were down early Friday in a sign that Trump's wave of tariff letters may be starting to generate concern among investors.

TARIFF TRACKER

In a social media post, Carney said Canada would continue to work toward a new trade framework with the US and has made "vital progress to stop the scourge of fentanyl."

"Through the current trade negotiations with the United States, the Canadian government has steadfastly defended our workers and business," Carney said.

While multiple countries have received tariff letters this week, Canada — America's second largest trading partner after Mexico — has become something of a foil to Trump. It has imposed retaliatory tariffs on US goods and pushed back on the president's taunts of making Canada the 51st state. Mexico has also faced 25% tariffs because of fentanyl, yet it has not faced the same public pressure from the Republican U.S. president.

Hours before Trump's letter, Carney posted on X a picture of himself with British Prime Minister Keir Starmer, saying, "In the face of global trade challenges, the world is turning to reliable economic partners like Canada." AP

Airstrike on Buddhist monastery kills at least 23 in Myanmar

BANGKOK

AN airstrike on a Buddhist monastery in Myanmar 's central Sagaing region killed at least 23 people who were taking shelter in the compound, separate sources said Friday.

The overnight aerial attack on the monastery in Lin Ta Lu village, in Sagaing region's Sagaing township, injured about 30 other people, of which 10 were in a critical condition, according to a member of a resistance group.

The resistance member — who spoke on condition of anonymity — told The Associated Press that 23 civilians including four children were killed after a jet fighter dropped a bomb around 1 am on a building in the village's monastery where more than 150 people from nearby villages were taking shelter to avoid fighting in the region in recent weeks.

Myanmar's independent Democratic Voice of Burma online media reported that the death toll could be as high as 30. That could not be immediately confirmed.

The military did not immediately comment on the incident at the monastery, which is located about 35 km (20 miles) northwest of Mandalay, the country's second largest city. In the past, the army has said it only attacks legitimate targets of war, accusing the resistance forces of being terrorists.

Myanmar has been in turmoil since the army seized power from the elected government of Aung San Suu Kyi in February 2021, triggering a civil war. After peaceful demonstrations were put down with lethal force, many opponents of military rule took up arms, and large parts of the country are now embroiled in conflict.

The military has increasingly used airstrikes to counter opposition forces, including the armed People's Defense Forces in Sagaing region, a stronghold of armed resistance. The resistance has no effective defense against air attacks.

The monastery attack comes weeks after hundreds of soldiers took part in an offensive with tanks and various aircraft in an area about five kilometers (three miles) from Lin Ta Lu to regain territories controlled by the resistance groups.

Thousands of people from nearby villages were displaced to the other towns and villages including Lin Ta Lu, the resistance fighter said. AP

Rubio, Wang meet amid trade tensions

KUALA LUMPUR

US Secretary of State Marco Rubio and Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi agreed Friday to explore "areas of potential cooperation" between Washington and Beijing, and stressed the importance of managing differences, following their first in-person meeting as they wrapped up a two-day regional security forum in Malaysia.

Rubio and Wang met Friday on the sidelines of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, or ASEAN, regional forum in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, as tensions between the two global powers continue to rise over trade, security, and China's support for Russia's war in Ukraine.

"Look, we're two big, powerful countries, and there are always going to be issues that we disagree on," Rubio told reporters after the meeting. "I think there's some areas of potential cooperation. I thought it was very constructive, positive meeting and a lot of work to do."

Both sides need to build better communications and trust, he said.

Netanyahu leaves DC without Gaza ceasefire deal despite Trump push

WASHINGTON

ISRAELI Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's trip to Washington this week netted President Donald Trump another nomination for the Nobel Peace Prize he covets, but the ceasefire the US leader sought for the war in Gaza didn't emerge.

Despite Trump throwing his weight behind a push for a 60-day truce between Israel and Hamas, no breakthrough was announced during Netanyahu's visit, a disappointment for a president who wants to be known as a peacemaker and has hinged his reputation on being a dealmaker.

"He prides himself or being able to make deals, so this is another test case," said Rachel Brandenburg, the Israel Policy Forum's Washington managing director and senior fellow.

Trump's ability to strike a ceasefire deal in the 21-month war will reveal the boundaries of his influence with Netanyahu, especially after their recent joint strikes on Iran's nuclear facilities that both leaders touted at the White House this week.

Beyond the back-to-back meetings Trump and Netanyahu had at the White House this week, there was little public evidence of progress at a time when the Republican US president is pushing to end the fighting.

It's unclear how much pressure Trump put on Netanyahu in their private talks this week. But the two leaders came into the visit seeming more aligned than ever — at least for now — fresh off the president having twice come to the Israeli leader's assistance. AFP

Iran may have hit US's geodesic dome in Qatar

DUBAI: An Iranian strike on Qatar's Al Udeid Air Base likely hit a US secure communications dome, satellite images show, though the US and Qatar have not commented publicly on the damage. The June 23 attack followed US bombing of Iranian nuclear sites, leading to a ceasefire that ended the 12-day Iran-Israel war. Damage was limited as US forces evacuated aircraft beforehand. Trump called Iran's strike a "very weak response" and thanked Tehran for early notice.

2,000 GRADS TO AID REGIONAL GROWTH

Indonesia will deploy 2,000 university graduates to 154 transmigration areas in August under its Transmigration Patriot Program, the ministry announced Friday. Backed by a budget hike to Rp1.89 trillion, the graduates will assess local potential to attract investment and support regional growth beyond state funding. Minister Suryanagara said placements include Batam, West Sulawesi, and South Papua, not extremely remote areas. In 2026, 1,500 master's and doctoral graduates will join the programme, which aims to develop underdeveloped regions.

Malaysia has reduced weekly working hours to 42 for 82,637 emergency doctors, nurses, and health assistants, citing "extraordinary" stress levels. ### CRACKDOWN TARGETS CASINO TYCOON

Authorities are moving against Kok An, Cambodia's casino kingpin, over alleged call centre scams that cost Thais billions. Kok An, tied to Cambodian leaders and controlling Poipet casinos, is wanted for money laundering and transnational crime. Thailand logged 175,000 online crime cases this year, with most scams traced to Cambodia. The crackdown, dubbed "Operation Mule Account Takedown," follows tensions between the Shinawatras and the Hun family. # Chinese staff recall: 'No impact on Foxconn output'

Govt says will facilitate visa, co can recruit staff from other nations

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

AS iPhone manufacturer Foxconn recalls its Chinese employees from India, the Indian government has said it is not concerned about any potential disruption to iPhone production in the country, citing Apple's alternative manufacturing options overseas. It means Foxconn can deploy employees from other regions such as Vietnam, Taiwan, or Brazil if needed.

"I would look at it more as an opportunity. If the workers want to go back, it's between the company and the workers. They will have to make arrangements to ensure the work continues — production won't be impacted. We facilitated their visas," said the senior official from MeitY.

Last week, reports indicated that Foxconn Technology Group, the Taiwanese contract manufacturer for Apple, had recalled around 300 Chinese engineers and technicians from its Indian factories. This move leaves mainly Taiwanese support personnel still based in India.

Though the exact reasons behind the recall are unclear, it is believed to be linked to China's broader efforts to limit technology transfers and restrict the export of advanced manufacturing equipment to India. The decision could potentially disrupt iPhone assembly lines at Foxconn's key manufacturing hubs in Tamil Nadu and Karnataka, ahead of the launch of iPhone 17 in the coming months.

"And I think, as far as Apple is concerned, they have alternatives overseas. We are monitoring the situation. The primary responsibility lies with the company — Apple — to ensure that the manufacturer doesn't impact production," the official added.

In FY25, Apple assembled iPhones worth $14 billion in India — roughly one out of every seven iPhones produced globally — through facilities operated by Foxconn, Pegatron, and India's Tata Group. Between March and May 2025, Foxconn exported 97% of its India-made iPhones to the U.S. market, amounting to $3.2 billion in shipments. According to reports, Apple is aiming to increase iPhone production in India to account for 25% of its global output.

India readies ₹1,345 cr subsidy scheme for rare earth magnet

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

AMID growing concern over rare earth magnet supply disruption, inter-ministerial consultations are underway for implementing a Rs 1,345-crore incentive scheme for production of these magnets locally.

"The government is interested in manufacturers who process from rare earth oxides to magnets. Eligible manufacturers will be selected to process rare earth to magnets. Once selected, they can start production immediately," said an official from the Ministry of Heavy Industries. Big component makers like Uno Minda, Sona Comstar and auto manufacturer Mahindra & Mahindra are said to be lining up for applying under the scheme. "Rare earth magnets are used for manufacturing auto components, and we are hoping all major component makers would apply under the incentive scheme," said a government official. Last month, minister of heavy industries HD Kumaraswamy had said the government will announce a scheme to incentivise production of rare earth magnet. He had said if the incentive crosses ₹1,000 crore, the scheme would be sent to the Union cabinet for approval.

India sourced over 80% of its approximately 540 tonnes of magnet imports from China last financial year. China is the world's dominant exporter of rare earth magnets, controlling over 70% of global Rare Earth Element (REE) production and over 90% of refining capacity.

In April 2025, Beijing imposed stricter export controls on seven rare earth elements and finished magnets, mandating export licenses. This revised framework demands detailed end-use disclosures and client declarations, including confirmation that products will not be used in defense or re-exported to the US.

In order to ensure there is no short-term supply disruption, the government is said to be engaging with the Chinese government both diplomatically as well as commercially (facilitating talks between Chinese suppliers and Indian industry).

Rare earth magnets are made from alloys of rare earth elements. They are integral to Permanent Magnet Synchronous Motors (PMSMs), which are widely used in EVs for their high torque, energy efficiency, and compact size. Hybrid vehicles also rely on them for efficient propulsion. In Internal Combustion Engine (ICE) vehicles, their use is primarily limited to electric power steering and other motorized systems. Elements like Dysprosium (Dy), Terbium (Tb), Neodymium (Nd), and Praseodymium (Pr) are crucial for these magnets, especially in high-performance applications.

Tesla confirms India entry, to launch 1st store in Mumbai

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AFTER years of playing hide and seek, US electric carmaker Tesla has finally confirmed India arrival with the launch of its first showroom opening in Mumbai on July 15. The first Tesla Experience Centre will be opening at Mumbai's Bandra Kurla Complex, followed by another store launch expected in the National Capital.

As per sources, Tesla will start India operations by importing cars manufactured in its China facility. The company is reported to have imported a few Model Y cars from the Shanghai factory in China.

The particular model carries a price tag of about ₹28 lakh and will attract an import duty of more than ₹21 lakh given India attracts a 70% tariff on imported cars priced below $40,000. The final ex-showroom price of Model Y is expected to be about ₹50 lakh. Last month, Tesla India took on lease 24,565 square feet warehousing space in Lodha Logistics Park in Mumbai for five years. In June, Union Heavy Industries Minister H D Kumaraswamy stated that the Elon Musk-led company is not interested in manufacturing cars in India but keen on establishing showrooms in the country.

Weak earnings season weighs on mkts; Sensex, Nifty decline 1%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

DOMESTIC stock market suffered noticeable losses on Friday as investors' sentiment turned cautious after a weak start to Q1FY26 earnings season. The BSE Sensex closed 690 points, or 0.83% down at 82,500.47, while the Nifty 50 settled at 25,149.85, down 0.81%. This is the second straight week when the benchmarks have registered a fall. The two indices fell 1.1% each this week,

Broader indices mirrored the weakness on Friday, with the Nifty Midcap 100 slipping 0.8% and the Nifty Smallcap 100 declining nearly 1%, indicating a risk-off undertone across the market. "Sentiment turned risk-averse amid mounting concerns over a tepid Q1 earnings season, exacerbated by Tata Consultancy Services' (TCS) underwhelming quarterly performance and cautious management commentary," said Bajaj Broking in a note.

Sectorally, the sell-off was widespread. Nifty IT emerged as the worst hit, plunging 1.8%, as investor confidence in tech waned post-TCS results. Rate sensitive sectors such as Nifty Auto, Nifty Realty and Nifty Infra fell between 1 and 2% on Friday. Shares of TCS fell 3.5% to settle at 3,264.50 on the NSE after the IT giant reported a drop in Q1FY26 revenue, especially a 3.3% sequential drop in constant currency revenue. Following this, brokerage firms such as Nomura and UBS trimmed their price targets for TCS.

RBI set to clear name of IndusInd CEO soon

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

THE Reserve Bank is likely to clear the name of the next chief executive of the troubled IndusInd Bank this month itself — by cutting short its time consuming application vetting process that normally takes three to four months normally.

IndusInd Bank has been headless since late April when the scam-tainted chief executive Sumant Kathpalia and deputy Arun Khurana resigned owning moral responsibility for the massive losses in its forex derivatives trading book and had to book a massive ₹2,329 crore in net losses in the March quarter.

The board of the Hinduja group-owned bank led by chairman Sunil Mehta had submitted its list of three possible candidates to the Reserve Bank on June 30, as mandated by the regulator.

Though there has been no public acknowledgement of the submission, it has been learnt that the board has shortlisted three names- Rajiv Anand of Axis Bank, Anup Saha of Bajaj Finance, and Rahul Shukla of HDFC Bank- to man the top deck. Among the three, the rumour mill is that the 59-year-old Anand leads the race to the corner office of the sixth largest private sector lender.

"Indusind Bank should have a new CEO before the end of this month itself. The RBI is keen to ensure that the bank has a full-time CEO at the earliest," a person in the know of the RBI's internal developments on the matter told TNIE. "A regulatory approval coming in within a month of the board submitting its shortlisted names, will be a first for the industry and also for the regulator, as it takes on average three to four months of vetting," the person cited above explained.

The speed with which the central bank is clearing the appointment of the CEO for the bank comes as its inspection of the books of the city-based lender has not found anything else amiss. Giving it the confidence to let the bank run on its own, the source added.

CHINA

BANKS STRUGGLE TO COMPLY WITH BEIJING'S LENDING PUSH

Banks in China are struggling to comply with new guidelines set by Beijing to boost consumer credit as they reel from a surge of defaults on personal loans and have a hard time finding households in good financial shape that want to borrow. Since March, financial regulators have issued multiple directives urging banks to offer more, and cheaper, loans to spur consumption, as part of broader efforts to counter the impact of the trade war with the US. This prompted banks to market personal loans at record low interest rates below 3% initially, before raising them back amid concerns over shrinking profit margins. As per a Reuters report, banks are struggling to raise consumer lending, citing subdued demand, as well as concerns over a rapidly growing pile of bad household debt and uncertainty over their clients' incomes. Recent wage cuts in the financial industry, manufacturing and state sector have dented households' financial health while higher US tariffs are fuelling concerns over jobs and income stability.

JAPAN

BOJ MAY OPT FOR GRADUAL SELLING OF ETFS IN MARKETS

The Bank of Japan (BOJ) will gradually sell exchange-traded funds (ETF) in the market, rather than opt for other ideas like transferring them to government entities, when it decides to unload its holdings in the future, as per a Goldman Sachs report released on Friday. The central bank purchased ETFs for 13 years from 2010 as part of its ultra-loose monetary policy aimed at reflating a moribund economy. While the BOJ stopped purchases last year, it has not said when and how it could unload its 37-trillion-yen ($252 bn) ETF holdings, which have a market value of 70 trillion yen. When it decides to unload the holdings, the BOJ has said it would do so based on three principles: to dispose ETFs at a price that avoids the bank from incurring losses. To minimise the BOJ's loss and the impact on stock markets, a reasonable schedule would be for the BOJ to begin disposing ETFs from fiscal 2026 or 2027, and sell at an annual pace of slightly over 600 billion yen to one trillion yen in book value, the report said.

REAL MONTHLY WAGE HIKE HITS 5-YEAR HIGH

In the first five months of 2025, the average monthly regular wage increase in Taiwan, after inflationary adjustments, reached a five-year high, as growth of the consumer price index (CPI) showed signs of moderating, according to the Directorate General of Budget, Accounting and Statistics (DGBAS). In the industrial and service sectors, the average real monthly regular wage rose 0.96% during the five-month period, the biggest increase in five years, to reach NT$43,572 (US$1,489), DGBAS data showed Thursday. The average nominal monthly regular wage, before inflationary adjustments, increased 3.02% to NT$47,568 from January to May, marking the highest growth in 25 years, as per the data. The average monthly wage rise came amid signs of CPI moderation in the first five months of 2025, the DGBAS said. The CPI growth was 2.04% in the five-month period, compared with 2.15% in the period January to April, although it remained above the 2% alert issued by the central bank.

Net direct tax revenue falls 1.34% to ₹5.63 lakh cr on higher refunds

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

NET direct tax revenue declined 1.34% to nearly ₹5.63 lakh crore till July 10 of the current financial year due to higher refunds, as per the government data released on Friday.

The Net corporate tax collection declined 3.67% to nearly ₹2 lakh crore, from ₹2.07 lakh crore in the year-ago period. Non-corporate tax (including individuals, HUFs and firms) revenue stood flat at ₹3.45 lakh crore between April 1 and June 10, 2025. Securities transaction tax (STT) collection was ₹17,874 crore till July 10. Total net collections stood at ₹5.63 lakh crore, a decline of 1.34% over ₹5.70 lakh crore collected in the year-ago period.

Net refunds issued so far this fiscal year surged 38% to ₹1.02 lakh crore. Gross collections (before refunds) stood at ₹6.65 lakh crore from April 1-July 10, a 3.17% growth over ₹6.44 lakh crore in the year-ago period. Gross corporate tax collection grew 9.42% to nearly ₹2.90 lakh crore, while gross non-corporate tax mop-up fell 1.28% to ₹3.57 lakh crore till June 10.

The revised slab structure continues to offer relief to a large base of taxpayers, resulting in reduced tax liability. Higher capital expenditure has led to increased depreciation claims, thereby impacting immediate tax outflows. In the current fiscal year, the government has projected its direct tax collections at Rs 25.20 lakh crore, up 12.7 per cent year-on-year. The government has collected 22.34 per cent of its direct tax target till July 10. The government aims to collect Rs 78,000 crore from STT in FY26.

Shardul Amarchand Mangaldas & Co Partner Gouri Puri said the decline in net direct tax collections is primarily due to a rise in the volume of tax refunds processed.

WHEN the play began on Day 2 of the third Test at the Lord's on Friday, all eyes were on Joe Root, England's leading run-scorer in Test cricket. Stranded on 99 at stumps, the 34-year-old Yorkshire batter couldn't have asked for a better start. A full-ish delivery wide of the off stump by Bumrah. First ball of the day was pushed through gully for four. Root completed his 37th century.

As expected, he was ecstatic and celebrated the moment with his teammate and captain Ben Stokes with spectators giving him a huge round of applause. Little did he know the stage would soon be taken over by Jasprit Bumrah, the world No. 1 Test bowler and a legend in the making.

The India pace spearhead, in his next over, pitched it short on the off. The ball shaped back, beat Stokes completely. He could only helplessly watch the ball hit the top of his off stump. He could add only five runs to his overnight individual total and get out on 44. The visitors could have had dangerous Jamie Smith the very next over, bowled by Mohammed Siraj, but KL Rahul dropped a chance at second slip when the wicket-keeper-batter was on five. That cost India dear as Smith played a quickfire knock of 56-ball 51 and added 84 runs with Brydon Carse for the eighth wicket to take the team beyond 300. Looking unfazed, Bumrah seemed to be the man on a mission as he continued in the same vein. It yielded results immediately as he bowled centurion Root through the gate. It was full and just outside the off. Root looked to drive it but got late and ended up getting an inside edge which uprooted his middle stump. It was the 11th time Bumrah has got Root in the longest format, the joint-most with Australia skipper Pat Cummins.

With Bumrah operating at his full efficiency, facing him was the last thing Chris Woakes wanted but he had no choice. The result - Woakes in his attempt to slash the outside off stump delivery got a spike which was pouched by substitute wicketkeeper Dhruv Jurel. The on field umpires, however, thought otherwise but India opted for a review, which eventually made it two in a row for Bumrah. Smith and Carse then denied India any success till lunch but the resistance was broken by Siraj. Second over into the break, the Hyderabad pacer finally had Smith but by then the damage was already done. Bumrah then completed his first five-fer at the iconic venue to have his name on the honour's board when he castled Jofra Archer playing his first Test in more than four years. It was his 15th five-wicket haul overall and 13th overseas, which took him past Kapil Dev to become the most successful Indian bowler as far as the five-fers are concerned.

In the meantime Carse completed his half-century as the hosts eventually reached 387.

In reply, India opener Yashasvi Jaiswal got going in the first over as he dispatched Woakes for three fours but Archer got rid of him off the very third ball of his first over to mark his comeback. It was a perfect delivery bowled at 143 kph which squared Jaiswal up as he nicked a simple catch Harry Brook stationed at second slip.

Karun Nair then saw off the new ball with opener Rahul but a brilliant one-handed catch at the first slip by Root meant the former once again lost his wicket despite a promising start. It was the 211th catch for Root, the most by a fielder, surpassing Rahul Dravid's 210.

That dismissal brought Shubman Gill to crease but the India skipper, who had scored 585 runs in the first two Tests, was sent back packing giving India their biggest jolt of the day. Rishabh Pant, who walked off the field on Thursday after getting hit on his left index finger, replaced Gill in the middle.

Sorry for inconvenience... but just get on with it: Jajodia

FIROZ MIRZA @London

BOTH sets of teams have been complaining about the Dukes in the ongoing series. The trend continued on Friday as Shubman Gill engaged in a heated discussion with one of the on-field umpires, Sharfuddoula, over its quality.

The second new ball India were given on Thursday night lasted for 63 legal deliveries before it refused to go through the rings. The replaced ball also got the boot just after 48 legal deliveries as it also failed the test. Former England pacer Stuart Broad added to the debate with a post on social media.

Incidentally, the latest referendum on the Dukes was happening in the backdrop of Dilip Jajodia's visit to the Lord's. The managing director of British Cricket Balls Ltd, Dukes' parent company, said: "Nothing is wrong with the ball as we make the ball to assignment. It's made with natural raw materials like leather, cork and rubber. A huge amount of technical ability has to go into making it. Now, unfortunately, cricket balls are a unique product, unlike a football, where you can't test it. The testing is in play," he told a few reporters on Friday.

He also asserted other factors like weather and cricket equipment like bats can have a role in early deterioration of the balls. "... the best you can do is to make sure that everything is correct as it's made, all the raw materials are processed. If it fails, unfortunately, it fails in use. Now, what they don't take into account is weather conditions, very hot, power of bats, all sorts of things. The problem is we have a long lead time to make the product. So you can't suddenly say, 'oh, these are not working, so we'll try this'. Can't have any chats with the ECB in this regard. There is no gut reaction and knee-jerk reactions. You know, we're in the middle of a Test series. With the greatest respect, there have been two results. The last game where India won the match, the captain (Shubman Gill) scored more runs than any other Indian has. Two bowlers got six wickets. So, you know, all I can say is, I'm sorry about the inconvenience, but at least you're playing cricket. That's the main thing. So, you know, just get on with it because I'm not supplying balls deliberately that makes you unhappy. I'm not doing that. I'm trying my best," he said.

He reiterated the fact that the actual testing is done in play and he personally chooses the balls for the Test matches. "If it fails, as I say, it's not tested in advance. We test all sorts of things in advance, but the actual finished product, I can tell you, if you look at a new Dukes ball, there is nothing more beautiful than it on the planet. You look at it, it looks fantastic. So you put it into the game. I personally choose the best balls for the Test match. So I'm not going to choose 12 balls that are going to fail. If they fail, I might argue whether they fail. At the moment, it fails because it doesn't go through the big ring. I could argue it's not out of shape, but that's what the regulations say. I can't hear that it's soft. They're hitting the ball. I can hear it's perfectly OK. So, you know, the superstars can argue. They're the play masters. I have to produce what they want. That's all I can say to you."

Jajodia might argue but players, be they from the England camp or the India team, are certainly not amused, which in turn can hit the reputation of the company.

ISL put on hold due to uncertainty on MRA

CHANDRA PRABHU @Chennai

INDIAN football has found itself in jeopardy, again. Football Sports Development Limited (FSDL) which manages India's premier football competition — Indian Super League (ISL) — has officially put the 2025-26 season on hold, citing uncertainty in the Master Rights Agreements (MRA) with the All India Football Federation (AIFF), which is set to expire at the end of the year.

A letter addressed to clubs on Friday revealed that the FSDL is uncertain on holding the league beyond the agreement's expiration date - December 8 2025. "Given this situation, we regret to inform you (the ISL clubs) that we are currently not in a position to proceed with the 2025-26 ISL season and are placing it on hold until further clarity emerges on the contractual structure beyond end of current MRA term," the FSDL stated in its letter, assessed by this daily, to all 13 ISL clubs.

By the time when the current MRA expires, the season would have been one-third done. "While discussions between FSDL and AIFF on the potential renewal of the MRA were initiated several months ago, they remain inconclusive at this time. In the absence of a confirmed contractual framework beyond December, we find ourselves unable to effectively plan, organise or commercialise the ISL season," the letter further read. The Supreme Court hit the pause button on MRA talks because of a long-standing case regarding the AIFF's draft constitution. The final judgement is expected on July 18. Rumours of the tournament not continuing started when the ISL was not part of the 2025-26 calendar planned in June by the AIFF. This prompted clubs to delay their pre-season and stall transfer activity.

Sinner faces Alcaraz in final again

AFP @London

JANNIK Sinner crushed Novak Djokovic in the Wimbledon semi-finals to set up the latest instalment of his gripping rivalry with defending champion Carlos Alcaraz in Sunday's final. The world number one is through to his fourth successive Grand Slam title match -- and his first at the All England Club -- after a 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 demolition on Centre Court on Friday.

The 23-year-old will be desperate to avenge his painful French Open defeat against world number two Alcaraz after squandering three championship points in last month's epic Roland Garros final. Sinner and Alcaraz are the undisputed new kings of men's tennis, claiming the past six majors between them.

Defeat on a baking Centre Court means seven-time champion Djokovic must wait for another shot at a record 25th Grand Slam title after failing in his latest bid to equal Roger Federer's record of eight men's Wimbledon crowns. It is the first time he has failed to reach the Wimbledon final since 2017. Italy's Sinner was still wearing a white protective sleeve after injuring his elbow in a nasty fall against Grigor Dimitrov in the fourth-round.

Djokovic also came into the match, watched by Hollywood star Leonardo DiCaprio, with questions over his fitness after tumbling to the turf late in his quarter-final victory against Flavio Cobolli. Top seed Sinner broke Djokovic in the third game, unleashing a barrage of relentlessly accurate groundstrokes to wear the sixth seed down. The Serb, 38, wilted under the onslaught in the ninth game as Sinner converted his third set point. Results: Carlos Alcaraz bt Taylor Fritz 6-4, 5-7, 6-3, 7-6(6); Jannik Sinner bt Novak Djokovic 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

NEERAJ SPEAKS

On NC Classic, Tokyo prep & more

IFRAH MUFTI @New Delhi

OLYMPIC gold medallist Neeraj Chopra, who was in Delhi NCR on Friday to inaugurate an athlete wear store in Gurgaon, expressed deep sorrow over the tragic death of 25-year-old tennis player Radhika Yadav, who was allegedly shot by her father following a disagreement over her tennis academy.

Calling it a painful reminder of the challenges faced by women in sports, Chopra said, "Families must support women athletes, not stifle their dreams." Switching focus to his own journey, Neeraj shared insights into his preparation for the upcoming Tokyo World Championships. Currently training in the Czech Republic, Chopra is working under the guidance of javelin legend Jan Železný. He acknowledged technical issues still plaguing his performance. "I have already identified the areas I need to work on. While throwing the spear I tend to run too much on my left side. We need to work on that. The difference appears during the training and the competition. My coach says that I waste a lot of my strength and power which I should apply on Javelin," Chopra said on the sidelines an event organised by Under Armour. "We are also working a lot on the run-up. In some competitions like Paris Diamond League and Doha Diamond League it was good but in Bengaluru it wasn't because there was a bit of headwind also. In Ostrava, I had the feeling that I can throw well but the run-up and technique wasn't good," he added. Neeraj said that Zelezny, the world record holder and a childhood icon, was pleased with how the javelin event in India turned out. "He thanked me for bringing international attention to Indian javelin. That meant a lot coming from someone who has given his entire life to the sport."

In a light-hearted moment, he also expressed curiosity about cricket throwers transitioning into javelin.

Balaji elected RFI prez after new court order

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

AFTER volleyball and kabaddi, it's now Rowing Federation of India's turn for its stalled election process to get completed.

As expected, Balaji Maradapa of Tamil Nadu has been elected the president while Subhasish Mukherjee of Bengal has been elected the secretary general. Maradapa beat Harpal Singh comprehensively and will replace out-going RFI president Rajalakshmi Singh Deo, who finished 12 years in office, and Mukherjee will replace MV Sriram. Chiranjit Phukan is the treasurer. RFI got the green signal from the Delhi High Court to declare results for the elections condited in February 2024. With Olympics 2036 in mind, India cannot afford to have too many court cases on governance issues of National Sports Federations. "I know everyone in rowing personally and have been part of the federation for nearly 38 years," he told this daily. But the new president has acknowledged that there will be bigger challenges because of the limited time they have for the Asian Games first (next year) and the Olympic qualification period for LA28. "More than one year there has been no federation so things need to be in order soon. The Olympic Games is three years away. We needed to be back and start preparing."

94 blocks in TN have experienced the most significant changes in heat over the past four decades. Another 64 clocks, although not showing a long-term rise, are experiencing above-average temperatures

TAMIL NADU'S HEAT CRISIS: EITHER BUILD SUSTAINABLY OR BURN

DISTRICTS BY HEAT INTENSITY CLASS

- Extremely Heat-Intensified (≥ 95%): Chennai, Karur, Pudukkottai, Ramanathapuram, Sivagangai
- Significantly Heat-Intensified (80–94%): Tiruchirappalli, Thoothukudi, Namakkal, Thanjavur, Madurai, Ranipet, Virudhunagar
- Moderately Heat-Intensified (50–79%): Erode, Tirunelveli, Tiruppur, Salem, Ariyalur, Tenkasi, Kanchipuram, Chengalpattu, Perambalur
- Marginally Heat-Intensified (25–49%): Cuddalore, Dindigul, Mayiladuthurai, Tiruvallur, Kallakurichi, Kanniyakumari, Nagapattinam, Tiruvannamalai
- Less Heat-Intensified ( < 25%): Coimbatore, Villupuram, Dharmapuri, Tiruvarur, Vellore, Theni, Krishnagiri

TN faces compounding challenges: recurring droughts, erratic rainfall, cyclones, floods, sea level rise, and increasingly, heat waves. The IMD recorded 591 disastrous heatwave days across TN's districts between 1969 and 2021, where at least one heat-related fatality was reported per day. As per Anna University's Centre for Climate Change and Disaster Management, thermal discomfort days are projected to rise from 107 days per year (1985– 2014) to 150 days per year by 2050

SV KRISHNA CHAITANYA @ Chennai

As Tamil Nadu continues its breakneck urbanisation, a new decadal study commissioned by the State Planning Commission (SPC) has sounded alarm bells over rising land surface temperatures (LST) and worsening heat stress across the state. Titled "Urban Growth and Thermal Stress: A Decadal Assessment of Built-Up Area and Climate Interactions in Tamil Nadu," the report reveals how unregulated urban expansion has created dangerous heat islands, strained infrastructure, and intensified ecological degradation in the last two decades.

The study, which integrates high-resolution spatial data from MODIS LST, ERA5 air temperature records, and building footprint changes from 1985 to 2015, maps heat exposure at the block-level for all 389 blocks across Tamil Nadu. The results show 94 blocks have witnessed a steep rise in heat over the past 40 years, while 64 blocks currently suffer from temperatures well above the state average. Particularly vulnerable are 25 blocks — including those in Chennai, Karur, and Ramanathapuram — which fall into both categories, making them high-risk zones for future climate and health.

The heat driver

The report places rapid urbanisation at the heart of the problem. Between 1985 and 2015, Tamil Nadu witnessed unprecedented expansion in built-up areas, particularly in districts like Chennai, Coimbatore, Tiruppur, and Chengalpattu. For instance, S.S. Kulam block in Coimbatore more than doubled its built-up area from 62 sq km to 137 sq km — surpassing even Chennai, which expanded from 86 sq km to 131 sq km during the same period.

More worryingly, when built-up area is analysed relative to a block's total geographical area, the percentage of land classified as "built" has jumped alarmingly. In Chennai, this rose from 48 per cent to 74 per cent in just three decades, while St. Thomas Malai in Chengalpattu posted a 44 pc rise, the highest relative growth recorded.

"Heat stress is becoming one of the most tangible impacts of climate change. As urban areas expand, integrating heat considerations into planning is essential to safeguard communities and protect ecosystems. Mainstreaming Heat Action Plans at the city level is now a necessity," Sudha Ramen, member secretary and Head of Division (Land Use), SPC, told TNIE.

ROLE OF URBANISATION

Urbanisation is clearly a dominant driver for heat. The correlation between building footprint expansion and temperature rise is evident. Blocks such as Chennai (74% built-up in 2015), St Thomas Mount (43%), and peri-urban areas in Coimbatore, Tiruppur, and Villupuram show a direct link between surface development and heat accumulation

Night-time heat: A silent killer

One of the most significant findings of the report relates to night-time land surface temperature (NLST), a key indicator of retained heat in urban zones. Using satellite data from MODIS, the study shows that between 2000–2005 and 2018–2023, average NLST increased by nearly 4°C in many urban and peri-urban zones. Even Tier-II cities like Madurai, Tiruchirappalli, and Erode are seeing worrying upward trends, which could have serious health impacts.

"We often ignore how hot nights affect human health, both physical and mental health. Sustained heat exposure after sunset reduces the body's ability to recover, increasing risks of dehydration, cardiovascular stress, and even mortality," said Shweta Narayan, Campaign Lead, Global Climate and Health Alliance.

The Universal Thermal Comfort Index (UTCI) used in the study reinforces this concern, with large areas in and around Chennai, Coimbatore, and Madurai falling in high thermal discomfort zones. Roughly 27 pc of the population is now residing in blocks with above-average night-time LST, putting them at prolonged risk.

Hilly terrain no longer immune

Traditionally cooler regions like the Nilgiris, Kodaikanal, and parts of Theni are also showing heat stress. Expansion of settlements on hill slopes and shrinking forest buffers have altered the microclimate of these fragile ecosystems.

In hilly terrain blocks, the correlation between heat rise and increased built-up area is significant. For example, building footprint changes in 90 terrain blocks now mirror the same trends as those in urban plains, suggesting that highland zones are no longer climate havens.

The report offers detailed, block-wise categorisation of heat exposure based on both historic changes and current conditions, providing policymakers with a spatially disaggregated vulnerability map. J Jeyaranjan, executive vice chairman, State Planning Commission, said moving forward Tamil Nadu must integrate heat metrics into land use planning and zoning regulations, prioritise high-risk blocks for green infrastructure investments, enforce stricter construction codes in peri-urban and hill zones, revive wetlands and water bodies as natural coolants and establish block-level heat action plans under State Action Plan for Climate Change (SAPCC 2.0).

The study contributes directly to Tamil Nadu's Heat Mitigation Strategy (2024) and State Climate Change Mission. It also aligns with global Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) — particularly SDG 11 (Sustainable Cities), SDG 13 (Climate Action), and SDG 15 (Life on Land).

With projections under the RCP 4.5 and 8.5 climate scenarios indicating a 0.9°C to 2.7°C increase in maximum air temperatures by 2050, Tamil Nadu is running out of time. The message from this decadal assessment is clear: either build sustainably — or burn.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY

MANAS NATIONAL PARK SHOWS THE WAY

SUDARSAN MAHARANA @ Bhubaneswar

MANAS National Park and Tiger Reserve in Assam has displayed a remarkable resurgence in wildlife and habitat stability, tiding over two decades of armed conflict and ecological degradation, says a new study.

One of India's most important biodiversity hotspots, the tiger reserve's resilience is a reflection of effective conservation policies, anti-poaching efforts, and strong governance which drove the recovery of endangered species in protected areas (PAs), said the study titled 'Status of endangered large prey predators following civil unrest in a biodiversity hotspot of India,' published in scientific journal Nature.

Situated within the Bodoland Territorial Area Districts of Baksa and Chirang in Assam, the Manas TR is spread over 2,837 sq km with a 500 sq km core. Serving as an important transboundary conservation landscape spanning north-eastern India and southern Bhutan, it is recognised for its biodiversity and holds multiple designations including UNESCO world heritage site.

Sharing its northern boundary with the Royal Manas National Park and Phibsoo Wildlife Sanctuary in Bhutan, the TR connects to Buxa in West Bengal to the west and is linked to Jomotsangkha Wildlife Sanctuary in Bhutan to the east. The transboundary landscape spans approximately 8,000 sq km across north-eastern India and southern Bhutan.

Located at the confluence of the Indo-Burma and Eastern Himalaya, Manas suffered extensive damage during civil unrest from the late 1980s to early 2000s which led to widespread habitat destruction, poaching and a collapse of its ecological management systems.

The study noted that Forest personnel and facilities were targeted by armed rebels leading to deterioration of park management. Uncontrolled human access to the park added biotic pressure leading to massive land use change and habitat degradation. During this period, over 40 per cent of the primary forests were converted to agriculture and settlements.

The period saw a drastic decline in populations of flagship species including local extinction of the greater one-horned rhinoceros and the near extermination of tuskers due to organized poaching and ivory trade. The populations of the endangered eastern swamp deer also nearly extirpated during the conflict. Spotted deer and wild boar population also dwindled due to their high value as bushmeat.

However, following the resolution of civil unrest in 2003, there has been an encouraging recovery of tigers, leopards and several other wildlife species in the protected habitat, revealed the study carried out by Vaibhav Chandra Mathur, Jayanta Kumar Bora, Jyotishman Deka, Deb Ranjan Laha, Keshab Gogoi, Qamar, Qureshi and Ujjwal Kumar during 2022–2023.

The study used elephant-back line transect distance sampling and camera trap-based spatially explicit capture-recapture techniques to assess the post-conflict recovery of endangered prey-predator guilds in the TR and found that habitat restoration, anti-poaching initiatives and community engagement programmes, initiated to restore Manas' ecological integrity, gradually led to the recovery of several species.

A total of 50 spatial transects covering 408 km in 2022 and 51 transects covering 694 km in 2023 were walked to estimate ungulate densities. The 267 camera trap stations deployed helped detection of 57 tigers - 26 female, 23 male and 8 unsexed along with 38 leopards. The tiger density was found to be 7.91 per 100 sq km.

"The recovery of the tiger population in Manas, at a growth rate of 17 per cent annually, is driven by enhanced protection measures such as improved law enforcement and increased prey availability. With 57 adult individuals, including more than 20 breeding females, Manas serves as a critical source population for the transboundary Manas-Dooars landscape," the survey underlined.

The study recorded high density of elephant (9.14 per sq km) and wild buffalo (4.47 per sq km). Leopards maintained a stable density of 4.77 per 100 sq km. Other species like Gaur, sambar and barking deer showed stable density compared to 2015 baselines. Reintroduction of the rhinoceros in 2008 and the swamp deer in 2014 saw their population grow at a rate of around 17 per cent annually, marking a significant progress in restoring Manas' biodiversity.

The survey, however, revealed decline in hog deer and wild pig populations and suggested persistent ecological vulnerabilities despite broader ecosystem recovery. The authors cautioned that umbrella species conservation approach, where recovery of the apex species is often evaluated as recovery of the overall ecosystem in India, may not always address the needs of habitat specialists. The sharp decline of hog deer, for instance, calls for species-specific management such as translocation from more stable populations in Kaziranga and Orang Tiger Reserves and the establishment of predator-proof enclosures, they underlined.

Additionally, they stated that the continued decline of wild pigs, an important prey base for large carnivores, highlighted the need for intensified habitat protection and prey base restoration.

The researchers demonstrated that elephant-back line transects, instead of foot transects in tall grassland habitats, can effectively estimate the density of ungulates and mega herbivores and suggested that given the habitat complexity and northeast India's strategic positioning in a biodiversity hotspot, the approach can be extended to other floodplain ecosystems to assess the abundance and distribution of ungulates and mega herbivores with more accuracy.

WITH A RANGE OF EATERIES, BARS, AND MAJOR FASHION BRANDS POPPING UP IN HSR LAYOUT AND A YOUNG CROWD DRAWN TO ITS THRIVING STARTUP ECOSYSTEM, THE ONCE SLEEPY PART OF TOWN IS BECOMING A POPULAR HANGOUT

PICS: NAGARAJA GADEKAL & @hsr_layout

HOSA ADDA!

A busy HSR Layout

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

HSR Layout has undergone a major shift over the last 25 years. Once dominated by farmland and vacant plots, the region has now transformed into a thriving residential hub with exorbitant real estate charges, making it an upscale neighbourhood.

Despite the shift, HSR Layout has long been perceived as an area removed from the city and its excitement, with most people gravitating to adjacent Koramangala or Indiranagar for a night out. However, in the last few years, trendy and aesthetically-appealing eateries and outlets of practically every major brand have blossomed in the area, making it a happening part of the city.

Soumya Sriraman, 28, a clinical analyst who has lived in HSR for nearly a decade, notes the drastic change in the area, saying, "Back in the day, it wasn't developed and we had to travel to Jayanagar or Malleswaram to shop, however, things are no more the same. You get everything here." The nightlife and community events, especially, have had a major difference, according to her.

Not just the residents, but youngsters from nearby areas in South Bengaluru, like Electronic City, Bellandur and Sarjapur Road, can be spotted out and about during weekends, with HSR being closer to them than other shopping hotspots like Indiranagar, Koramangala or MG Road. Samyak Agrawal and his partner make the trip from Bellandur almost every weekend. "Even places like Jayanagar are quite far away for us. We love coming here to grab breakfast or lunch and taking a stroll through the greenery afterwards. The only drawback is the lack of metro connectivity and its construction blocking traffic into the area for hours," he says.

So what makes HSR Layout so appealing to new restaurants, cafes, and pubs looking for a place to get started or to established brands scouting for a new territory? Anirudh Nopany, co-founder of Brik Oven, explains that it's the clientele composed of a mix of youngsters and families, having both disposable income and adventurous tastes. "There's a large population of young professionals, entrepreneurs, creatives, and families – all of whom are well-travelled, well-informed, and open to new ideas. We've also noticed that people here care deeply about lifestyle," he says.

The influx started just shy of the pandemic, notes S Reddy, manager of Irani Std Tea, a popular adda for youngsters in the area. He says, "Startups began emerging in the area just before Covid and people between ages 20 and 30 from across the country started working here. Being unmarried with disposable income, they are willing to spend money on eating out."

Survival of a food venture here is not easy with a clientele spoiled for choice. Reddy adds, "If two new restaurants open here, three shut down. You have to have something unique to offer to sustain a business in the area."

High street

Fashion, too, is thriving in HSR. While malls are missing in the region, areas like 27th main road and 19th main road are chock-a-block with brands like Allen Solly, Nike, Adidas, Louis Philippe, rubbing shoulders with designers like Tarun Tahiliani and labels such as Aukera and Suta. "The presence of the National Institute of Fashion Technology and the influx of design-driven boutiques set the tone early on. The arrival of flagship stores from national and international brands has solidified HSR as one of Bengaluru's most dynamic shopping spots. The area draws a digitally savvy, aspirational crowd – mostly aged 25 to 45 - with a high focus on occasion-based fashion," says Sameen Eajaz, the COO of Koskii.

The presence of big players hasn't deterred smaller boutiques or mom and pop fashion stores, with trendy designer boutiques mushrooming in the lanes surrounding 27th Main Road. "The presence of top Indian and international brands has made 27th Main a high-footfall, fashion-driven street. For emerging labels, this creates a positive ecosystem; they benefit from increased traffic, elevated customer perception, and brand adjacency," explains Eajaz.

GOTTA CATCH 'EM ALL!

Drawing from his childhood love for Pokémon, 23-year-old Vibhuv Reddy has created a 'Paxi' or 'Pokémon Taxi', turning his eye-catching car covered in stickers of the anime into a makeshift, moving store for his collection

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

STROLLING around the streets of Bengaluru is always an adventure, whether you're new to the city or used to it. With new cafes, food carts, and offbeat experiences to discover and experience, you may think you're already used to the unexpected, but when Vibhuv Reddy's 'Paxi' rolls down the roads of Koramangala, most people do a double-take. After all, it isn't every day that you see a sleek navy blue Volvo covered in stickers of Charizard, Pikachu, Rowlet, Snorlax, and Dragonite.

Parking what he likes to call a 'Paxi' in different areas of the city every other week, the 23-year-old, like a proud owner, throws open his trunk, displaying the spread of Pokémon cards he sells – a sight that would send any hardcore Pokémon fan into a tizzy.

"Every collector starts off wanting 1 or 2 cards, but slowly it turns into more than you expected. I was spending way too much on Pokémon cards and needed a way to sell them," he laughs, adding that when he started, his collection was around 500. "Initially, the idea was just to have a shop. But since we (including volunteers) are trying to grow Pokémon card collecting in Bengaluru as well, we thought, why not set up our inventory in our car and drive around, just to see who's interested. People are always curious when they see us driving by," he adds. It turns out quite a lot of people are, with most of Reddy's collection selling out in a week, and one reel about him on Instagram getting upwards of 30,000 likes.

Ranging from ₹50 to ₹45,000, Reddy's Pokémon cards include those in three different languages – English, Japanese, and Korean, with a focus on vintage and rare cards. "I like to focus on cards that came out between 1996 and 1999, because that's when Pokémon cards started being released. They are also rare in varying levels – those that were released on the first day and those that were released in the first year. I have most of the non-first edition cards that are rare and valued around ₹30,000, but not those that go up to ₹5 lakh," he explains.

The costliest card in his collection is a ₹45,000 one called Gangar VMAX. "This is a modern one that came out during the Pokémon card boom amid the Covid pandemic when prices skyrocketed. The texture is intricate and beautiful, so that it feels like holding a piece of art," he adds.

Reddy is a recent graduate of Philosophy and Math from a US university. What drew him to the card game was both its aesthetic appeal and simplicity of play.

"Most people are familiar with the characters, and the game has a very simple mechanism. But there is so much individuality and so many ways that you can communicate within the game – it's easy to get into. I think I was also fascinated with a lot of the art for many of the characters," he says, attributing this as the same reason young people have been drawn to his Paxi pop-ups.

DANDASANA STRAP
(STAFF POSE STRAP)

The strap makes the pose accessible and easier for practitioners. Beginners with tight hamstrings or lower back muscles will find great relief in getting the alignment right. The strap encourages the active participation of the legs and feet, improving muscle awareness and control. It reduces the risk of injury by preventing overextension or poor alignment. It further supports the proper alignment of the hips, knees, and ankles, reducing strain on these joints. Included in therapeutic or restorative yoga sequences.

STEPS

- Grab a yoga strap and start in Dandasana, legs extended straight together, hands beside your hips, spine tall, head over your heart, and heart over the pelvis, pressing your sit bones into the floor. Keep your neck long and chin parallel to the floor.
- Take a big breath in. Exhale, gently lean forward and slightly bend your legs at the knees to loop the strap around the feet balls, holding it with both hands on each side and feet flexed. Keep the strap taut.
- Inhale, rise and straighten your legs. Flex your ankles to draw your toes back toward your face. Simultaneously, press the balls of your feet forward against the pull of the strap.
- Activating thigh muscles, press the thighs firmly into the floor while keeping your knees straight but not locked. Engage your core muscles by drawing the navel into the spine, supporting your lower back and maintaining stability.
- Ensure your pelvis is neutral. Keep your elbows comfortably bent, using the strap to maintain an upright posture. Keep head, neck, and back comfortably straight, ribs soft, avoiding over-arching the lower back.
- Close your eyes and relax your body for about six breaths. Breathe deep and evenly.
- To release, inhale and remove the strap aside.
- Finally, release and relax in Staff Pose Hands Back Knees Bent or Child Pose.

BENEFITS

- Included in yoga sequences for almost all, irrespective of age, gender, or level of practice.
- Works wonderfully as a cooling practice after an intense flow or power yoga sequence involving inversion and backbends.
- Beautiful peak pose to prepare the body for forward bend.
- Included in prenatal yoga, encouraging better posture.
- Activates the Muladhara Chakra, promoting a sense of security and foundation.
- Improves posture, greater body awareness, and a sense of mindfulness that extends beyond the mat.
- Can be added to yoga for kids, teens, and professionals, counteracting slouching and relieving lower back pain tension.
- Strengthens back muscles.
- Lengthens and stretches the spine.
- Relieves complications related to the reproductive organs.
- Stretches shoulders, chest, and hamstrings.

LIMITATIONS

- Students with lower back or a wrist injury, avoid this practice.
- If you suffer from breathing disorders, or general breathlessness, ulcers or bulimia, keep your back against a wall.
- Use a blanket under the legs if hamstrings are too tight.

LIFE & THE AFTERLIFE

RUBINATIONS
Rubi Chakravarti
Writer, actor and funny girl

I am constantly reminding myself that these are random occurrences. But, the frequency and regularity with which these grotesque deaths are happening is making me feel that some other sinister events are in play. It is like the earth is swallowing up all our young people! And I am talking about the young people who are hale and hearty, take care of their health, non-smokers, and I could go on and on. They are going to sleep one night and not waking up the next morning! As Indians we are very accepting about the death and its repercussions on the unfortunate families left behind. We have our culture, prayers, and a strong belief in the Almighty and a huge support system in the form of family, friends and neighbours. There are no words or deeds one can offer or do to a devastated mother or a young wife or husband that is left behind. Sometimes, even as a words-smith, I am bereft of anything to say.

Chef Anuj Sood was a bright young star at the ITC Gardenia who helped open up their specialty restaurant Cajsa (meaning pure). I remember going there for an intimate pre-opening and meeting up with the very talented Anuj . His excitement was infectious! On my subsequent visits I would always see him hard at work behind the counters, encouraging the staff with a pat or a kind word. A young father who's eyes would light up when he spoke of his daughter and wife in Australia. To him cooking was an art form and he literally conjured up magic with his gastronomy skills winning the admiration of his peers and seniors in the industry. An avid traveller, a passionate singer and dancer, Anuj was the life of every get-together. Yet, one morning he never woke up. He just slipped away after wishing his still shell-shocked mother goodnight. R.I.P. Anuj. I never imagined that after that warm hug we shared when I congratulated you on your superb dinner barely three months ago would be the last. Gone much too soon…

My school friend's young son, barely 38 years old too decided to do the same. A young handsome boy who loved trekking and sports, a talented restaurateur and businessman just went to sleep and never woke up. It's a travesty and very difficult to console the elders that were left behind. So I stayed closeted in my home for a week. My close friends, including my other half, are travelling, so it was difficult to manage my emotions alone. My housekeeper was sure I had attached superglue to my derriere and that's why I was stuck to my lazy-boy chair. Well, the universe has a way of shaking one out of ones reverie, isn't it? The phone buzzed and it was my good friend Nikhil Agarwal, founder/ CEO of All Things Nice a leading luxury, wine, and spirits marketing and consulting agency, to spend an evening with him at Olive Beach, drinking wine from Maison Mirabeau and Alta Vista. A group of friends and I landed up and it turned up to be an evening dominated more by beautiful women, including Francesca Martin who represented the company. And everyone knows that women who drink wine, don't whine!

Be kind. Every day is your first and last day!

SYNCING FOOD WITH BODY'S CLOCK

NUTRIWISE
Sadhvika Srinivas
(The writer is the director and chief nutritionist at LivStack Health and Performance, Chennai)

In our fast-paced, convenience-driven world, many of us eat whenever we can, skipping meals, eating late at night, or grabbing quick bites on the go. But while we focus on what to eat, we often ignore when to eat. Meal timing, it turns out, plays a crucial role in enhancing digestion, mitigating acidity, boosting energy, and promoting overall health and productivity.

Why meal timings matter?

Our bodies operate on an internal clock, known as the circadian rhythm, which regulates various bodily functions, including digestion, hormone secretion, metabolism, and sleep. The digestive system, too, works best when it follows a predictable rhythm. Eating at irregular times disrupts this natural pattern, often leading to symptoms like bloating, indigestion, acidity, and fatigue.

When you eat at consistent times each day, your body begins to anticipate food intake, preparing stomach acid, digestive enzymes, and gut motility in advance. This anticipation improves nutrient absorption and minimises digestive discomfort. In contrast, erratic eating can confuse the system, leading to unnecessary acid production, delayed stomach emptying, and gas buildup.

Acidity and bloating are among the most common complaints in both adults and children. While food choices certainly contribute, meal timing plays a surprisingly powerful role in reducing these symptoms. Skipping breakfast or delaying meals for long hours can lead to an overproduction of acid in the stomach. When no food arrives to buffer this acid, it irritates the stomach lining or flows back into the esophagus, causing heartburn.

Having meals at regular intervals, ideally every two to four hours, can help regulate acid secretion and reduce the risk of reflux and indigestion. Eating too close to bedtime is another common trigger for acidity, as lying down soon after eating impairs digestion. Finishing your last meal at least two to three hours before sleep can significantly improve overnight digestive comfort.

Meal timing doesn't just affect the gut, it directly influences brain function and energy levels. Irregular meals, skipped breakfasts, and late-night snacking can lead to unstable blood sugar levels, which result in fatigue, poor concentration, and irritability. A well-timed breakfast provides the brain with the glucose it needs for optimal function, improving memory, attention, and mood.

Similarly, eating lunch at the same time each day prevents afternoon slumps. By providing consistent energy to the body and brain, regular meal timing enhances productivity, particularly in school-going children & working professionals.

Our hormones follow a natural rhythm throughout the day, with certain digestive and metabolic processes being more active during the daylight hours. For instance, insulin sensitivity – the body's ability to process carbohydrates efficiently – is highest in the morning and early afternoon. Eating the majority of your calories earlier in the day, rather than late at night, supports better metabolism and blood sugar control.

Time-restricted eating, where meals are consumed within an eight-ten-hour window during the day, is gaining popularity as a lifestyle practice that supports weight management, gut health, and energy levels, without requiring major dietary changes.

TIPS FOR BETTER MEAL TIMING

- Start your day with breakfast within an hour of waking to jumpstart digestion and prevent acid buildup.
- Have meals every four to five hours to keep energy levels stable and digestion smooth.
- Avoid late-night dinners, and aim to eat your last meal two-three hours before bedtime.
- Stay consistent, even on weekends, to maintain your body's rhythm.

Meal timing is one of the most underrated yet powerful tools in maintaining long-term health. Whether you're managing acidity, improving focus at work, or simply aiming for better digestion, eating on time can make all the difference. While food quality matters, syncing meals with your body's natural rhythm ensures that your digestion, energy, and productivity work in harmony, day after day.

DARSHAN'S DEVIL WRAPS BENGALURU SCHEDULE, EYES FINAL LEG IN THAILAND

Thashwini Veer, executive producer of Devil, helmed by Prakash Veer, discusses OTT demand for the film and confirms the official release date will be announced in early August

Darshan

CE FEATURES

THERE has been a constant buzz surrounding Challenging Star Darshan's upcoming mass entertainer Devil since its inception, and the excitement only grows louder. The film has now wrapped a crucial 70-day schedule in Bengaluru and Udaipur.

Now, the next and final stop is Thailand. The team is set to fly out on Tuesday for a 10-day shoot that includes song sequences and montage shots across Phuket, Krabi, and Bangkok. "We had shot for 18 days last year, and having resumed in April this year, we've now wrapped the Bengaluru schedule in 70 days on Friday. We worked 24 hours straight on some days, and it's been intense, but it helped us complete the shoot," shared Thashwini Veer, executive producer and wife of director Prakash Veer.

Devil marks the second collaboration between Darshan and director Prakash Veer, following their successful outing with Tarak. The film stars Rachana Rai as the female lead, with acclaimed actor Mahesh Manjrekar playing the antagonist. The ensemble cast also includes Sharmiela Mandre, Achyuth Kumar, and Vinay Gowda in pivotal roles.

On the OTT front, there's strong demand for the film's digital rights. "Yes, there is a demand," confirms Thashwini. "But we will make a decision after we return from Thailand. Timing is everything," she says.

Speculation around the release date is high. While some suggest a late September release, others hint at October or even December. "October is being considered, but it depends on post-production progress. Even December is being looked at. An official announcement will be made in the first week of August," Thashwini reveals.

Adding to the excitement, a grand song release is planned around Ganesh Chaturthi.

Presented by Jai Matha Combines and produced by Vaishno Studios' J Jayamma and Prakash Veer, Devil features cinematography by Sudhakar S Raj and music by Ajaneesh Loknath.

Is the iconic Suri–Shivarajkumar duo returning for Tagaru 2?

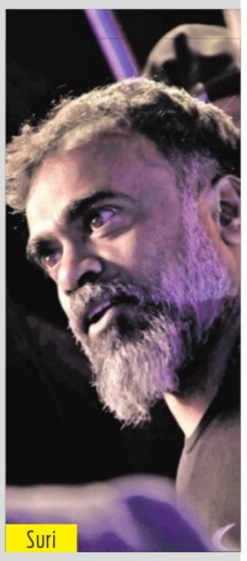
CE FEATURES

AS Century Star Shivarajkumar celebrates his birthday on July 12, several exciting film posters and announcements have been unveiled, stirring anticipation among fans. Among the highlights is Project 131, along with a film directed by Pavan Wadeyar. Shivarajkumar has also signed another project under Myra Productions, further expanding his busy slate.

However, the poster that has truly captured attention comes from KP Sreekanth, the producer of the hit film Tagaru. This new poster hints at the long-discussed and eagerly awaited sequel to Tagaru, which originally starred Shivarajkumar and was directed by Suri. Although earlier discussions about a sequel had fizzled out, the latest reveal has reignited speculation.



Suri

Interestingly, while the director's name has not been disclosed, Shivarajkumar's appearance in the poster strongly hints at a reunion with director Suri. If confirmed, it would mark the return of the successful Tagaru trio—Shivarajkumar, Suri, and KP Sreekanth—reuniting for what fans hope will be Tagaru 2.

With multiple projects lined up and the buzz surrounding a potential sequel to one of his biggest hits getting loud, Shivarajkumar's birthday celebrations come with more than just wishes—bringing excitement and heightened expectations, even as an official announcement is still awaited.

A meditative leap into the emotional landscape of modern love

A SHARADHAA

WITH Doora Theera Yaana, director Mansore offers not just a film, but a conversation; one that quietly unpacks what it truly means to love, to disagree, to travel together, and maybe, just maybe, to part peacefully. It's an intimate and daringly quiet piece of cinema from a director best known for hard-hitting social stories (Harivu, Act 1978, and a thematic cousin to his Nathicharami), though far more atmospheric, introspective, and free-floating.

Here, Mansore trades the rigid frameworks of societal drama for the ever-shifting terrain of the heart. Yet, it's no less insightful, perhaps even more so. One could say this is Mansore's most personal work yet, not because it's life-based, but because it is emotionally universal. It reflects the realities of many modern couples, people trying to love each other across very real differences in temperament, vision, and desire. It's a portrait of two kinds of people: those who believe love is about growing together through compromise, and those who understand that sometimes the most compassionate thing is to let each other go.

At the centre of this journey are Vijay Krishna as Akash and Priyanka Kumar as Bhoomi, who deliver not just believable performances, but lived-in characters. Akash has a warm impulsiveness — he's a techie, yes, but also a dreamer, a part-time musician, someone who thrives in spontaneity and open skies. His affection is real, his care palpable. However, so is his boyish resistance to structure. Vijay Krishna captures this paradox delicately, a man who wants to be understood more than he wants to understand.

Priyanka Kumar, on the other hand, also a techie, is revelatory as Bhoomi. Her stillness is powerful. Her need for clarity, for rhythm in life, comes not from rigidity, but from lived grief — a woman shaped by the silence of a father, and the absence of a mother. She needs space, but not distance. She needs connection, but not chaos. Priyanka's performance is layered with quiet hurt, guarded hope, and restrained warmth. The chemistry between them doesn't explode, it simmers, hesitates, tests the water. It's real.

Mansore builds this emotional geography slowly. Through everyday moments, a jam session with friends, a beachside disagreement, a late-night talk, the very fact that the two have different tastes, right from having coffee and tea, he explores how love reveals itself in the tiniest fractures. Their week-long trip becomes a metaphorical journey: not toward each other, but toward truth in relationship. What begins as a celebratory escape becomes a mirror. And that mirror reflects everything... joy, resentment, fatigue, fear, and an aching desire to just be seen for who one is.

Along the way, they meet people who serve as emotional signposts. (Sharath Lohitashwa and Sudha Belawadi) — a couple who, after 32 years of marriage, are now living peacefully in a live-in arrangement post-divorce — offer a quietly radical idea: that commitment can transform, and still survive. "We are no longer married," they say, "but we still care." In contrast, Akash and Bhoomi also meet Gowri (Sruthi Hariharan), a woman from Nathicharami's world, who returns as a thoughtful voice on modern womanhood. She challenges Bhoomi's ideas of marriage, reminding her that commitment must be a choice, not a burden of tradition. These conversations aren't forced, they arise organically, like strangers one meets while travelling, who unexpectedly change your worldview despite confused beginnings; this is love post-definition, tender, boundary-less, and self-aware.

DOORA THEERA YAANA
Director: Mansore
Cast: Vijay Krishna, Priyanka Kumar, Sruthi Hariharan and Sharath Lohitashwa

Elsewhere, Krishna Hebbar makes a brief appearance as a loner living amid nature, detached from the noise of cities and people. His solitude isn't sad; it's a choice. His moments reflect another truth: sometimes life offers clarity only when you're alone with yourself, stripped of relationships that blur identity. His interactions with Bhoomi, who is herself caught between social expectations and emotional intuition, gently nudge her toward self-discovery.

Mansore's direction in Doora Theera Yaana is patient, unhurried, and deeply poetic. He doesn't impose drama; he invites introspection. The narrative isn't plotted in beats — it's mapped in feelings. There's no villain, no grand conflict, no melodrama — only the bittersweet ache of two people trying to belong to each other while holding on to themselves. He seems to draw not just from cinematic craft, but from real-life conversations — of friends, acquaintances, and perhaps, even personal history. His gaze is neither judgmental nor sentimental. It is observant, compassionate, and occasionally philosophical.

The film's aesthetic mirrors its emotional texture. Long shots by the sea, unplanned pit stops, brief musical interludes — they all evoke a sense of searching. Music, especially, plays a critical role. The first song, "Naanu Kolike Ranga," bursts with the casual joy of friendship and young love. Later, in Goa, when Akash's musical dream unexpectedly becomes reality — thanks to Bhoomi's quiet support, it becomes clear: she may not always agree with him, but she believes in him. Sometimes, that's what love is — not agreement, but encouragement.

Yet, the question lingers: Can they build a life together, or will their differences eventually consume the connection? The film doesn't offer answers — only understanding. Because sometimes, love is not about winning or losing, staying or leaving, but about arriving at a place of mutual respect. And if that place is not the same for both, then parting is not failure, it's grace.

Doora Theera Yaana is a film that listens, observes, and meditates. Vijay Krishna and Priyanka Kumar deliver emotionally precise performances that make you feel like you're watching real people, not characters. And Mansore, in his signature styl,e proves that cinema is most powerful when it is honest, tender, and rooted in truth.

A cinema in a cinema, but lost in its own cut

1ST DAY 1ST SHOW
Director: Girish G
Cast: Girish G, Jeevitha Vasishta, Aniruddha Sastry Rohit Srinath, and B M Venkatesh

A SHARADHAA

THERE was a time when cinema arrived on reel wheels; today, it streams via satellites. The struggles persisted until a few months ago, when the hard disk had to be sent to Chennai to be uploaded. 1st Day 1st Show tries to tell that story — of ambition, desperation, dreams, and digital delivery — but ends up more scattered than stirring.

Set against the backdrop of the Kannada film industry, this is a cinema-about-cinema tale. Director Rohith attempts to deliver a pan-Indian heartbeat wrapped in local truths. Jai, in the lead, embodies every filmmaker ever told they won't make it. Laila owns the stage, Ankita Gowda keeps the anchor grounded, and even Kunigal Srinivas Rao, as the faceless executive producer, reminds us that cinema may be a business, but it's also about soul.

What begins as an ongoing identity crisis of a film eventually pivots into a thriller. The movie truly starts when a crucial hard drive containing the final cut of a film vanishes a day before release. Assistant directors Giri (Girish G) and Loki (Anirudh Sashtry) must race against time, bureaucracy, and their own pasts to recover it.

It's a solid hook. And in moments, the film does shine. 1st Day 1st Show director Girish G tries to weave satire, social commentary, and behind-the-scenes chaos into a cohesive narrative. There are clever touches: the nod to UFO Cube's arrival in Bengaluru, the obsession with astrology and auspicious Friday releases, and how piracy creeps in within hours of the first-day-first-show. These glimpses feel rooted and real. But here's the catch: the film tries to say too much, too fast.

It juggles technician trauma, gender identity struggles, failed directors in flashback, press meet politics, temple rounds, suicide, and filmmaking metaphors, all in under two hours. In trying to be a commentary, a thriller, and an emotional drama all at once, it ends up tonally confused.

The aspiring heroine who transitions and ends up homeless in Chennai deserves a film of her own, not a subplot crammed between plot twists. The executive producer constantly doing mental math, the once-hopeful director haunted by failure; these are powerful characters, but the film treats them like footnotes in its rush to cover ground.

Even the film's meta-moments — questioning why critics review films, or how titles are locked in before shooting — spark interest but are never explored deeply.

To its credit, 1st Day 1st Show does attempt to portray the underbelly of the industry, the villainy of piracy, the heartbreak of broken dreams, the unglamorous truth behind the scenes. It gives voice to a generation of filmmakers whose journeys begin on buses to Chennai and often end in silent exits. There's heart here. There's intent.

One line stands out: 'Cinema is like pregnancy — nine months of labour, and one Friday decides its fate.' It's a quote that lingers. Unfortunately, the film doesn't quite deliver the cinematic baby it promises. The emotions are real, the ambition is noble — but the execution still feels stuck in post-production.

In the end, it's a film with heart but too many threads and not enough clarity. It wants to be everything: a love letter, a cautionary tale, a cinematic statement. What it becomes instead is a rough draft of a better, more focused movie.
